The Cup And The Mask:

The Cup and the Mask Gertrude Clancy, 1994-01-01      Athens, Etruria, and the Many Lives of Greek Figured Pottery
Sheramy D. Bundrick, 2019-02-26 A lucrative trade in Athenian pottery flourished from the early sixth until the late fifth century B C E finding an eager market in Etruria Most studies of these painted vases focus on the artistry and worldview of the Greeks who made them but Sheramy D Bundrick shifts attention to their Etruscan customers ancient trade networks and archaeological contexts Thousands of Greek painted vases have emerged from excavations of tombs sanctuaries and settlements throughout Etruria from southern coastal centers to northern communities in the Po Valley Using documented archaeological assemblages especially from tombs in southern Etruria Bundrick challenges the widely held assumption that Etruscans were hellenized through Greek imports She marshals evidence to show that Etruscan consumers purposefully selected figured pottery that harmonized with their own local needs and customs so much so that the vases are better described as etruscanized Athenian ceramic workers she contends learned from traders which shapes and imagery sold best to the Etruscans and employed a variety of strategies to maximize artistry output and profit      Vessels Claudia Brittenham, 2019 What is a vessel As objects made for human interaction and handling both containing and bounded by space vessels can take many forms and be constructed of a wide variety of materials However they are all unified in signifying a potential for practical functioning whether or not a particular object is in fact used in this way in its particular context In this second volume in the Visual Conversations in Art Archaeology series and the first in the Center for Global Ancient Art sub series four essays by leading scholars tackle the category of vessels in ancient Greece late antique Rome pre Columbian Mesoamerica and ancient China By considering the material properties of the object as container the interactions between user and vessel and the power of the vessel as both a conceptual category and material metaphor they argue that many vessels and assemblages of vessels were in their own time sites of considerable intellectual power smart and sophisticated commentaries on the very categories that they embody In collecting these individual case studies together the volume offers an art historical and cross cultural study of vessels from ancient societies drawing illuminating comparisons and interpretations between traditions In keeping with the aims of the series it serves as a model for a new kind of comparative art history one which emphasizes material culture and is attentive to questions of evidence and method yet remains historically grounded and contextually sensitive      Masks, Heads, and Faces Ellen Russell Emerson, 1891      The Vocal Athlete Marci Rosenberg, Wendy D.
