The Creator And Man:

The Heart of the Creator Manny Mpock, 2022-05-13 This book takes you by hand to life's greatest journey and experience a must for every living human being on earth. You get to meet the interactive creator who hears, speaks, and needs no mediator just you and him. No greater opportunity in life than meeting, speaking to, and being spoken to by him one on one. With truth and love on life support on earth today, the breeding of hate has resulted in divisiveness compounded violence in society and a planet in peril. The abundance of proposed solutions to humanity's ills are based on conjecture, baseless myths of ancient mysteries, unsubstantiated claims, fancy words, worthless traditions from time past, false hope, false peace, and doom. Rather than the confusion resulting from infighting among human factions, you, the scientists, philosophers, religious, and agnostic groups, have been invited to chat with the one who claims he is the creator of all things. In this book, he explains in great simplicity why things are happening the way they are, the source of problems, and how to easily fix these daunting problems. He declares that the time for words is over and it is time to back words with real power, now with the kind of power that creates things from nothing. Humanity has a chance to see the creator up close and personal, not just someone with empty words, but to experience his power and why he claims to be the creator. In a matter of hours after completing the last page, you will never be the same again after the encounter.

The Creation Everett Jenkins, 2003 The major monotheistic religions of the world, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, have certain elements in common, particularly in their scriptures concerning the beginnings of life and the early history of human beings. This shared beginning is compellingly worth further study. Common ground and common threads can only help a dialogue between people of different faiths. This reference work could be a tool toward greater understanding of other faiths and focuses on the story of the creation of the universe and of humans. Part One traces the development of the earth and its inhabitants from a scientific viewpoint so that the humanistic perspective may be contrasted with the scriptural accounts to follow. Part Two features an introduction to the Tanakh, information on the Torah, and what is known about its authors and other influences on the Jewish religion, followed by actual scriptures from the Torah from the creation through the destruction of the Tower of Babel. Then a section each is devoted to an explanation of the Catholic, Protestant, and Fundamentalist Christian interpretations of these stories, citing scripture as appropriate. Part Three affords a Muslim perspective with excerpts from the Sirah that refer to events and characters from the early chapters of Genesis. The appendices are rich: various chronologies of similar events based on the different scriptures; tables of contents for the various holy books; tables presenting summaries of a particular perspective on a subject or comparisons between two perspectives; and much more.

The Word of Truth Dale Moody, 1981-01-16 Bringing together the insights of several disciplines: biblical theology, modern science, biblical criticism, textual source form, redaction, historical theology, and the history of doctrine, Moody develops a systematic theology that is biblically grounded and ecumenically oriented. Thoroughly indexed.
