Ancient Greek Art and European Funerary Art Evangelia Georgitsoyanni, 2019-11-21 This book charts a significant aspect of European heritage cemeteries Cemeteries are nowadays considered as formal cultural sites and open air museums attracting a great number of visitors while cemetery records memorial monuments epitaph inscriptions and symbols provide useful data attracting the interest of an increasing number of scholars from various disciplines and backgrounds This collective volume consists of selected papers presented at the ASCE Association of Significant Cemeteries in Europe Conference Ancient Greek Art and European Funerary Art organized by the Harokopio University of Athens Greece on October 5 7 2017 aiming to highlight various cultural aspects of cemeteries The authors present funerary art and its classical origin investigate theoretical and historical approaches plan cultural and educational routes design technological applications concerning the use of cemeteries as cultural sites and propose multiple ways for promoting cemetery heritage and public engagement while the majority of the papers is based on field and archival research and is accompanied by original images The multicultural character of death heritage is highlighted through the variety of case studies presented in this volume introducing different perspectives and interpretations on art history heritage and cultural tourism laying the groundwork for the public discussion on our common heritage as appeared in cemeteries appealing to both the wider public and the academic community

The Megaliths of Northern Europe Magdalena Midgley, 2008-07 The North European megaliths are among the most enduring structures built in prehistory they are imbued with symbolic meanings which embody physical and conceptual ideas about the nature of the world inhabited by the first Northern farmers The Megaliths of Northern Europe provides a much needed up to date synthesis of the material available on these monuments incorporating the results of recent research in Holland Germany Denmark and Sweden This research has brought to light new data on the construction of the megaliths and their role in the cultural landscape and Magdalena Midgley offers a fascinating interpretation of the symbolism of megalithic tombs within the context of early farming communities This wealth of new evidence suggests the Northern European megaliths were important foci in the wider north west European context The construction of dolmens and passage graves using huge glacial boulders demanded both great communal effort and considerable skill In addition to this technical expertise the master builders also made use of their esoteric knowledge of rituals This was expressed in the use of exotic building materials and special architectural features and in the placement of tombs within the natural and cultural landscapes creating new metaphors and images Fully illustrated this book will be of interest to both undergraduate and postgraduate students of European Prehistory Archaeology and Prehistoric Anthropology as well as architects who study ancient architecture and social anthropologists who study modern megaliths Woodland in the Neolithic of Northern Europe Gordon

Noble,2017-02-15 The Neolithic period is one of the great transformations in human history when agriculture first began and dramatic changes occurred in human society These changes occurred in environments that were radically different to those that exist today and in northern Europe many landscapes would have been dominated by woodland Yet wood and woodland rarely figures in the minds of many archaeologists and it plays no part in the traditional Three Age system that has defined the frameworks of European prehistory This book explores how human environment relations altered with the beginnings of farming and how the Neolithic in northern Europe was made possible through new ways of living in and understanding the environment Drawing on a broad range of evidence from pollen data and stone axes to the remains of timber monuments and settlements the book analyzes the relationship between people their material culture and their woodland environment

Monumentalising Life in the Neolithic Anne Birgitte Gebaer,Lasse Sørensen,Anne Teather,António Carlos

Valera,2020-09-30 One of the principal characteristics of the European Neolithic is the development of monumentality in association with innovations in material culture and changes in subsistence from hunting and gathering to farming and pastoralism The papers in this volume discuss the latest insights into why monumental architecture became an integral part of early farming societies in Europe and beyond One of the topics is how we define monuments and how our arguments and recent research on temporality impacts on our interpretation of the Neolithic period Different interpretations of G bekli Tepe are examples of this discussion as well as our understanding of special landmarks such as flint mines The latest evidence on the economic and paleoenvironmental context carbon 14 dates as well as analytical methods are employed in illuminating the emergence of monumentalism in Neolithic Europe Studies are taking place on a macro and micro scale in areas as diverse as Great Britain Denmark Sweden Poland Germany the Dutch wetlands Portugal and Malta involving a range of monuments from long barrows and megalithic tombs to roundels and enclosures Transformation from a natural to a built environment by monumentalizing part of the landscape is discussed as well as changes in megalithic architecture in relation to shifts in the social structure An ethnographic study of megaliths in Nagaland discuss monument building as an act of social construction Other studies look into the role of monuments as expressions of cosmology and active loci of ceremonial performances Also a couple of papers analyse the social processes in the transformation of society in the aftermath of the initial boom in monument construction and the related changes in subsistence and social structure in northern Europe The aim of the publication is to explore different theories about the relationship between monumentality and the Neolithic way of life through these studies encompassing a wide range of types of monuments over vast areas of Europe and beyond

Houses of the Dead Alistair Barclay, David Field, Jim Leary, 2020-02-28 The chronological disjuncture LBK longhouses have widely been considered to provide ancestral influence for both rectangular and trapezoidal long barrows and cairns but with the discovery and excavation of more houses in recent times is it possible to observe evidence of more contemporary inspiration What do the features found beneath long mounds tell us about this and to what extent do they represent domestic structures Indeed how can we distinguish between domestic houses or halls and those that may have been constructed for ritual purposes or ended up beneath mounds Do so called mortuary enclosures reflect ritual or domestic architecture and did side ditches always provide material for a mound or for building construction This collection of papers seeks to explore the interface between structures often considered to be those of the living with those for the dead

Graveyards Roger Luckhurst, 2025-10-14 From the author of Gothic a marvelously illustrated cultural history of graves and graveyards from the earliest known burial sites to today's green burials Why how and where do we inter our dead How have people throughout history responded to the problem of laying their dead to rest Roger Luckhurst sets out in search of answers in this arresting book Taking readers on an unforgettable tour of the rich and unusual visual culture of the grave he visits locales such as the pyramids of Giza the catacombs and columbaria of Rome and the cenotaphs erected to the world's war dead Along the way he examines the diverse role of graveyards in literature art film and television In engaging chapters that look at all aspects of the treatment of the dead Luckhurst covers topics ranging from early burials and the emergence of necropolises and catacombs to grave robbing garden cemeteries the perilous overcrowding of the urban dead and the emergence of modern funerary culture Exploring the cultural afterlives of burial and memorial sites in the popular imagination he shows how graves have served as guides to the underworld poignant dedications to those we have lost as reminders of our own mortality and settings in gothic horror Blending lively storytelling with a wealth of stunning illustrations Graveyards is a lyrical frequently unexpected account of the grave as a signpost to the afterlife a site of remembrance and self reflection and an object of enduring fascination
