

PRIDE AND PREJUDICE.

CHAPTER I.

[It is a truth universally acknowledged that a single man in possession of a good fortune must be in want of a wife.]

However little known the feelings or views of such a man may be on his first entering a neighbourhood, this is so well fixed in the minds of the surrounding families, that he is considered as the settled property of one or other of their daughters.

Mr. Bennet was one of those gentlemen who had heard that Northamptonshire was the best place for a fortune, and he had accordingly settled in that county.

He had one daughter, and she was the only one who was not a fortune-hunter.

He had no other children, and he was the only one who was not a fortune-hunter.
