

Economic systems failure #2: destabilising the planet

The second fault line is the economic system's destabilising impact on the planet through greenhouse gas emissions, pollution, deforestation and habitat loss. Large populations are already experiencing extreme heat, megadroughts, megafires and megafloods. This century, places that are considered largely uninhabitable due to extreme heat, will expand in area. Without urgent action, billions of people will be living in these areas. Even with urgent action, it is now almost certain the world will cross 1.5°C above preindustrial temperatures. At this temperature the world faces high risks of crossing ecological and climate tipping points. The impacts will last centuries to millennia. Each decade of delay leads to measurable declines in the resilience of Earth's biosphere.

Economic systems failure #3: failure to value the future

The third failure is chronic short-termism. Decisions made by governments and the private sector place an exceptionally heavy emphasis on the short term, meaning that societies ignore the profound implications of today's decisions and current crises: COVID, climate, conflict for our children and grandchildren, and ultimately for human progress. Even attempts to account for ecological and societal impacts focus on financial valuation rather than understanding their value for economic systems to function at all.

Political failure: democracy at risk

Democracies are already under pressure due to failures to deal systematically with risks in the past. More than a quarter of the world's population now live in countries that are backsliding on democracy. Two-thirds of the world live in either non-democratic regimes or backsliding democracies. If democracy is cherished, economic reforms to mirror these values are needed for human progress and human dignity. Systems transformation that strengthens these democratic values is urgently required.

Earth4All – a ground-breaking 2-year research project

Everyone knows we need to solve the climate and biodiversity crises. Everyone knows extreme poverty is unacceptable in a world that has never been so wealthy. Everyone knows the food system is vulnerable to shocks. Everyone knows inequality is driving anxiety, depression, resentment and polarisation. How do we move beyond this towards solutions that actually work?

Earth4All focused on three deeply intertwined systems: economy, society and the Earth system. At the heart of the analysis were two complementary intellectual engines that have allowed us to explore and develop bold proposals for the 21st century: the Transformational Economics Commission (TEC) and the system dynamics model Earth4All. This arrangement allowed the teams to test economic ideas using the Earth4All model(s). This allowed the team to explore where the ideas big enough to have a truly global impact on people, economic regions, nature and the whole planet over the long-term (2050, 2100).

Contesting Megaprojects Gerardo del Cerro Santamaría, 2025-12-24
Megaprojects are not merely transformative but rather they are inherently disruptive They are incompatible with any approach to urban sustainability that prioritizes the well being of urbanites and the boundaries of the Earth system In fact megaprojects undermine efforts to tackle the global impacts associated with both the destructive creation of capitalism and the new climate regime The reason for this state of affairs is not cost overruns and poor megaproject management but the disruptive impacts that megaprojects have on urban areas This book emphasizes the impacts imperative in megaproject planning the importance of identifying disruptive impacts as a prerequisite for critically assessing whether megaprojects should be built Drawing on 18 megaprojects in 16 cities around the world inter alia Istanbul Hong Kong Abu Dhabi Barcelona Boston New York and Shanghai Contesting Megaprojects illustrates urban regional trajectories over the past fifty years These trajectories show the coexistence of property development culture and iconic architecture together with a more recent interest in science and technology innovation and sustainability as strategies to foster urban competitiveness Megaprojects cause massive disruptions everywhere and the book offers a typology of megaproject impacts socioeconomic environmental spatial political and geopolitical financial cultural and systemic As a response to this emerging complex web of interrelated megaproject impacts disruptive complexity the book develops the concept of complex sustainability a transdisciplinary approach to urban sustainability through socioeconomic sustainability and deep sustainability The critical outlook of this book contributes to fundamental debates around capitalist development trickle down urbanism spectacularization high tech innovation and AI planetary boundaries global risks resilience the right to the city geopolitics democracy prosperity and power Contesting Megaprojects can help urban scholars and analysts practitioners policymakers and residents of cities better understand the complex impacts of urban megaprojects their magnitude and consequences and identify pathways of analysis and action toward a more sustainable and just future

Influence of

Psychological Factors on Product Development E.S. Kamata, 2006-01-19 This book focuses on the interrelationship of social technical and organizational aspects of and related to the product development process It originated from activities in practice in industry and research laboratories In order to ensure relative autonomy from the short term economic interests of a given industrial branch or specific company the research for this work was first conducted in pursuit of a PhD thesis intended to provide practice oriented results With the ansatz practice theory practice a generalizable approach was achieved It then evolved to cover additional issues brought forth by recent cases in the aerospace industry among others A combination of scientific methodologies is used to focus on the psychological factors that influence the quality of technical product development processes The basic framework is provided by the grounded theory a qualitative approach in which data was not only collected by this author but is extended to cases from the history of technology described in the published literature. The inclusion of historical cases is possible thanks to the availability of sufficiently detailed descriptions for examination in terms of the grounded theory principles. They appear in the Appendix. Cases cited were verified by comparing them with contrasting viewpoints from various sources. I was able to examine and complement some cases by contacting persons associated with the programs analyzed. Quantitative studies are also integrated in this research to verify the elements resulting from the grounded theory integration.

The China Race Fei-Ling Wang, 2024-02-01. Following its two prequels The China Order 2017 and The China Record 2023, this book analyzes the China Race, the global competition for power and leadership between the US-led West and the People's Republic of China. Considering the organizational options and optimality with respect to human civilization, Fei Ling Wang discusses two alternative world orders: the Westphalian System of international relations and a centralized world political unification. Both are feasible and existed before but with drastically different desirability. The rising power of the PRC state has consistently and methodically sought to recenter and reorganize the world to safeguard and promote its autocracy and ultimately build a world empire. Examining the nature, aims, means, accomplishments, pitfalls, and failures of Beijing's foreign policy and the state of and developments in Sinology and the West's China policy, Wang focuses on the existential PRC-USA rivalry and proposes a holistic strategic framework discussing three ranked objectives for the West and the world, including the Chinese people to manage, benefit from, and prevail in the China Race.
