

WAHINE TOLL 45 AND RISING

Grim Night Watch On Shore

Staff Reporter Wellington

Fears of a huge death roll from the wreck of the interisland ferry Wahine were growing in Wellington last night as searchlights played across the subsiding harbour seas.

By 12:30 a.m. today 45 deaths had been confirmed. But more than 100 of the 724 passengers and crew have not yet been accounted for.

On the eastern harbour shore, a grim watch for bodies being washed ashore was continuing through the night.

Australian Newspapers in the Television Age, 1956-2006 Rodney Tiffen, 2025-04-15 This book looks at Australian newspapers over the half century following the introduction of television in 1956 Through a quantitative study it illuminates how the nature of news has changed and how central journalistic practices have developed It examines newspapers changing size and structure their story priorities their use of visual aids and interpretive frames their changing range and treatment of sources and how these changes affected their political and international coverage The content analysis shows a dominant theme of growth and improvement Newspapers offered their readers much more at the end of the half century than at the beginning The much larger volume of news was presented in more visually attractive and reader friendly ways than before News agendas expanded in response both to changing reader interests and a changing political environment Newspapers had a more active orientation towards using a wider range of sources All papers shared in the major trends but to varying degrees so that by the end of the period there were sharper differences between the papers than at the beginning Mapping the multi dimensional nature of change in this pivotal period lays a groundwork for analysing the changing nature of journalism during the existential crisis that news organisations are now facing during the digital age
