The Patterns of Gann Granville Cooley, 1999 Handbook of Research on Design, Control, and Modeling of Swarm Robotics Tan, Ying, 2015-12-09

Studies on robotics applications have grown substantially in recent years with swarm robotics being a relatively new area of research. Inspired by studies in swarm intelligence and robotics, swarm robotics facilitates interactions between robots as well as their interactions with the environment. The Handbook of Research on Design Control and Modeling of Swarm Robotics is a collection of the most important research achievements in swarm robotics thus far, covering the growing areas of design control and modeling of swarm robotics. This handbook serves as an essential resource for researchers, engineers, graduates, and senior undergraduates with interests in swarm robotics and its applications.

I have written this material over a period of years. When I make reference to a recent date, it might be several years ago when I was writing the material. There is no right way or wrong way to read this material as far as the order is concerned. I started writing as ideas came to me, and as I made discoveries in the Gann material. So each book pretty much stands alone. You can start with any book you like. At the end of each chapter, you will find a link to the next chapter. There is also a link back to the book you are in, as you might want to go back and reread another chapter in the book. There is also a link to the main page where you can select another book. A little experimenting, and you will get the idea. As I said above, each book pretty much stands alone, and you might want to read them in the order in which they were written. However, some of the material is related in certain cases, and you might want to read On the Square, The Triangular Numbers, The Hexagon, and The Cubes, and Gann's Magic Square in that order in order to understand the material in Gann's Magic Square. Although they stand alone, you might want to read the material on the planets together.

New advanced materials are being rapidly developed thanks to the progress of science. These are making our daily life more convenient. The Institute for Materials Research (IMR) at Tohoku University has greatly contributed to the creation and development of various advanced materials and the progress in the field of material science for almost a century. For example, our early research achievements on the physical metallurgy of iron-carbon alloys led to the innovation of technology for making high-quality steels, which has greatly contributed to the advancement of the steel and related industry in Japan and rest of the world. IMR has focused on basic research that can be translated into applications in the future for the benefit of mankind. With this tradition, we have established the first high-magnetic field as well as low-temperature technologies in Japan, which were essential to the advancement of magnetism and superconductivity. Recently, IMR has expanded its research in the field of advanced materials, including metallic glasses, ceramics, nano-structural metals, semiconductors, solar cell crystals, new spintronics materials, organic materials, hydrogen storage alloys, and shaped crystals.

In the face of the crisis of the destruction of the global environment the depletion of world wide natural resources and the exhaustion of energy sources in the twenty first century we all have an acute serious desire for a better safer world in the future IMR has been and will continue the pursuit of research aimed at solving global problems and furthering eco friendly development
