Current Biography Yearbook ,1988     The writers directory [Anonymus AC00423973],1991     Decoding the Past Peter Loewenberg,2018-02-06 In Decoding the Past Peter Loewenberg has collected eleven of his brilliant essays on psychohistory a discipline that has emerged from the synthesis of traditional historical analysis and clinical psychoanalysis He surveys this relatively new field its methods and its problems to show the special contributions that psychoanalysis can make to history He then further explores the psychohistorical method by applying it to studies of personality cultures groups and mass movements demonstrating that psychohistory offers one of the most powerful of interpretive approaches to history

Decoding the Past is an impressive study that demonstrates the range of Loewenberg's own work in history and psychoanalysis and the full promise of an important and innovative methodology for others. His new essay takes up many of the criticisms and concerns raised about the method of psychohistory and offers a cogent defense for its continued usage.

Reconsidering Social Constructionism Gale Miller, 2017-09-29 With the impact of social interactionist and ethnographic methodology twenty five years ago the research agenda in social problems began to shift its focus giving rise to the Social Constructionism movement. The present volume and the related shorter text Constructionist Controversies review the substantial contributions made by social constructionist theorists over that period as well as recent debates about the future of the perspective. These contributions redefine the purpose and central questions of social problems theory and articulate a research program for analyzing social problems as social constructions. A generation of theorists has been trained in the constructionist perspective and has extended it through numerous analyses of diverse aspects of contemporary social life. The debates in this volume pose fundamental questions about the major assumptions of the perspective the ways in which it is practiced and the purposes of social problems theory. Their point of departure is Ibarra and Kitsuse's essay cutting new theoretical ground in calling for investigating vernacular resources especially rhetorical forms in the social problems process. Contributors are forceful proponents both within and outside of the social constructionist community who take a broad array of positions on the current state of social problems theory and on the rhetorical forms that need exploring. They also lay down the general lines for diverse and often competing programs for the future development of the constructionist agenda.
