Neuro-Education and Neuro-Rehabilitation Eduardo Martínez-Montes, Julie Chobert, Mireille Besson, 2016-11-04 In the last decade important discoveries have been made in cognitive neuroscience regarding brain plasticity and learning such as the mirror neurons system and the anatomo functional organization of perceptual cognitive and motor abilities Time has come to consider the societal impact of these findings The aim of this Research Topic of Frontiers in Psychology is to concentrate on two domains neuro education and neuro rehabilitation At the interface between neuroscience psychology and education neuro education is a new inter disciplinary emerging field that aims at developing new education programs based on results from cognitive neuroscience and psychology For instance brain based learning methods are flourishing but few have been rigorously tested using well controlled procedures Authors of this Research Topic will present their latest findings in this domain using rigorously controlled experiments Neuro rehabilitation aims at developing new rehabilitation methods for children and adults with learning disorders Neuro rehabilitation programs can be based upon a relatively low number of patients and controls or on large clinical trials to test for the efficiency of new treatments These projects may also aim at testing the efficiency of video games and of new methods such as Trans Magnetic Stimulation TMS for therapeutic interventions in children or adolescents with learning disabilities This Research Topic will bring together neuroscientists interested in brain plasticity and the effects of training psychologists working with adults as well as with normally developing children and children with learning disabilities as well as education researchers directly confronted with the efficiency of education programs The goal for each author is to describe the state of the art in his her specific research domain and to illustrate how her his research findings can impact education in the classroom or rehabilitation of children and adolescents with learning disorders

Curriculum for Utopia William B. Stanley,1992-07 This book examines the relationship between contemporary forms of critical theory and social reconstructionism as they relate and contribute to the construction of a radical theory of education It illustrates many of the persistent issues problems and goals of radical educational reform including the importance of developing a language of possibility utopian thought and the critical competence necessary to reveal and deconstruct forms of oppression Stanley perceptively and clearly reexamines new challenges posed to various forms of critical pedagogy including reconstructionism by the development of postmodern and poststructuralist theory focusing on the connections and continuities between them Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1971 Bibliographic Guide to Education ,1985 Resources in Education ,2001 Books in Print Supplement ,1984 National Directory of Latin Americanists Library of Congress. Hispanic Division,1985 Boletín Internacional de Bibliografía Sobre Educação ,1985 A Research Companion to Principles and Standards for School Mathematics Jeremy Kilpatrick,Wayne Gary Martin,W. Gary Martin,Deborah Schifter,National Council of Teachers of Mathematics,2003 This useful companion to Principles and Standards is for anyone seeking to explore the underpinnings of that document in the scholarly literature It synthesises a sizeable portion of the professional literature to lend valuable insight into current thinking about school mathematics and presents a comprehensive analysis of what research should be expected to do in setting standards for school mathematics The Futures Of Women Pamela McCorduck,Nancy Ramsey,1996 The official future says that women are moving toward equality with men If not in our lifetime we say then in our children s Think again If the rate of change during the last twenty years holds it would be 2270 before women and men were equally likely to be top managers of major corporations In The Futures of Women Pamela McCorduck and Nancy Ramsey explore four dramatically different alternatives for the coming years Using a powerful new way of understanding trends scenario planning the authors paint these vivid landscapes Backlash A Golden Age of Equality Two Steps Forward Two Steps Back and Separate and Doing Fine Thanks Each scenario has its own inner logic firmly grounded in today's events today's demographic and social trends and in tomorrow's technological promises but each one derives from a different combination of the political social and economic conditions that could prevail over the next twenty years The authors report from the recent UN Fourth World Conference on Women in Beijing further supports their scenarios The book began as a project for the Global Business Network a unique consulting firm whose scenario planning methods have helped governments policymakers and business leaders create effective strategies for the future Decisions take on new meaning when we can live for awhile in the world that would result from a course of action we're now considering Imagine a world where as many women as men are elected to the U S Congress Or a world where fear for personal safety causes women to don the Muslim chador on Western streets Or imagine a national economic policy influenced by giant pension funds whose managers and clients are mainly women Or a world where exclusive resorts cater to the sexual needs of busy women executives Are any of these worlds in our future Any one of them could be Only by understanding how we could move from here to there how the choices we make today could actually play out can we hope to influence which future comes to pass The official future won't happen but one of these four scenarios could The compelling stories of women living in these futures give women today the reasons and the inspiration to shape their own
