

Social Policy Development

Community development workers are involved in policymaking at a number of levels. First, all community organisations have some sort of policy about how they operate. Second, at a higher level, community organisations and community development workers are influenced by government policies that frame what they do, such as policies about government-community partnerships or social policies, such as those concerned with social inclusion. Finally, community development workers can influence the policies of other organisations and institutions, such as business corporations, funding bodies and local, state and federal governments.

It is important for community development workers to understand the level, formality and purpose of a particular social policy. When analysing the development of social policy, some general questions can be asked:

- What is the issue or problem being addressed, and how is it constructed? Is it a problem of large numbers of people being unemployed, living in poverty or lacking satisfactory housing, for example?
- Who is seen to be responsible (or blamed) for these problems: the individuals themselves, their families, the education system or the social system itself?
- Is the policy based on strong, non-consultative intervention into society? Is it participatory? Is it based on a laissez-faire model that supports the status quo?
- Why and for whom is the social policy being formulated? Are politicians making a gesture to show that they are doing something about the problem? Is the policy being developed on social justice principles? Is it a cost-cutting exercise? Is it a repressive mechanism to ensure that the poor and disadvantaged are kept in line? Is it based on blaming the victims, as a punishment for those who are disadvantaged?

The questions above should be considered by anyone who develops or analyses social policy. They are also ways in lobbying to maintain or change existing social policy, for it is necessary to understand the nature of social policy in order to have some influence on how it is developed.

Working with Local Government Units

The relationship between communities and local government should always be in the context on how communities can directly link with LGUs and is provided opportunities in participating its decision-making processes. One way of thinking about this issue is to identify different forms of relations between communities and local government councils. Table 1 offers a matrix for thinking about the types of relations with local government within the specific stages of project development.

Social Policy in Southern Africa Vusi Gumede,Neo Mokone,Emmanuel Ndhlovu,Takalanga Maziya,Cleopas Sambo,2026-01-22 This book dealing with social policy in Southern Africa offers a comprehensive collection of possible social policy based interventions in Southern Africa's socio economic and development realities starting with the history or background to existing social policies and ultimately proposing the kinds of social policies that are ideal for Southern African countries. Southern Africa as a sub region has a political history and socio economic profile that allows a focused study of the sub region particularly in relation to socio economic transformation. The sub region has been shaped by complex experiences of the various groups over millennia and the borders are a reflection of events of the colonial era which lasted well into the 20th century. Southern African countries have struggled with socio economic development. The lack of comprehensive social policies in the sub region is among the chief reasons for poor socio economic development outcomes in the sub region with progress hindered by widespread poverty, rising inequality, massive youth unemployment, female marginalization and deficits in domestic productivity, competitiveness, value addition, infrastructure and development planning. Demonstrating how social policy can confront the basic challenges of development in agriculture and the informal sector and showing both the theoretical and practical applicability of social policy in Southern Africa particularly with regard to responding to contemporary regional challenges such as climate change, war and conflict and pandemics, this book is necessary reading for all scholars and students of African politics, social policy and socio economic development broadly.

Future Directions in Social Development James Midgley, Manohar Pawar, 2016-11-25. This book invites readers to think about future directions in social development. The book succinctly presents the historical context and progress of social development. By reflecting on the Millennium and Sustainable Development Goals, it discusses the increasing global relevance of several critical themes and issues such as human rights and good governance, participation, peace, gender, environment, religion and spirituality, aging, social protection and partnership. It appreciates the importance of goals and targets but calls to look beyond them to visualise future directions in social development. The book argues that values driven social development needs to focus on knowledge creation, dissemination and training, draw on multidisciplinary knowledge and professionals promote conscientious consumption, create less unequal societies and engage in innovation that brings happiness to everyone.
