Social Welfare Values Means Ends:

Undergraduate social work education for practice; a report on curriculum content and issues. Lester J. Glick, editor Syracuse University. School of Social Work, 1972 Undergraduate Social Work Education for Practice Syracuse University. School of Social Work, 1972 Politics, Values, And Public Policy Frank Fischer, 2019-06-04 Addressed to the growing concerns about norms and values in policy assessment this study develops a methodology for the political evaluation of public policy It is designed to move policy evaluation beyond its current emphasis on efficient achievement of goals focusing instead on the assessment of the acceptability of the goals themselves employ Lessons from the Past Richard Roberts, 2025-11-14 In these times of financial stringency and conservatism in the public sector social work with its diversity and differentiation is criticized for its lack of efficiency and cost effectiveness First published in 1990 Lessons from the Past demonstrates the need for a more refined theory and practice to benefit social workers their clients and their agencies as well as influencing government legislation and policies Richard Roberts criticizes and evaluates a significant body of social work writings from the 1970s in its search for a grand all encompassing theory Various descriptions as generic integrated or unitary these theories attempted to construct propositions that would accommodate social work's broad domain regardless of setting method of intervention or socio political context Crisp and innovative Lessons from the Past will prove invaluable to professionals and students of social work social policy and the social sciences The Meaning Of Social Policy Bernice Q. Madison, 2019-07-16 The purpose of this book is to survey the literature on social welfare policies and planning of different nations in order to explain some of the major problems that are encountered in comparative research and to highlight what has been learned so far Value in Social Theory Paul Streeten, 2013-11-05 This is Volume XXI of twenty two in a series on Social Theory and Methodology First published in 1958 this is a selection of essays on practical methodology when trying to answer the question of what are the new presuppositions of social thought which can do justice to the changes in social organisation Myrdal attempts to illustrate his repeated attempts to explore the logical political and moral foundations of social thought and action as he pursued diverse academic and political activities The Frontiers of Development Studies Paul Streeten, 1979-06-17 Normative Cultures Robert Cummings Neville, 1995-08-17 The great civilizations of the world are very different from one another indeed more strangely different the closer they come in economic social and cultural interaction Yet each claims to be a normative way of being human At the very minimum human achievement requires competence in the conventions of one's own civilization To be human is to participate in a conventional culture and the normatively human conventional cultures are different Here is the clash of civilizations Without commitment to some conventions of civilized humanity no one can be human yet the conventions are different perhaps even opposed Two problems bring philosophy to the refiner's fire How can we conceive of human culture across the differences of civilized cultures This is a problem about the nature of theory itself It calls for a new theory of theorizing that at once provides synoptic understanding and recognized differences and incommensurabilities Many postmodern critics have thundered against theories that oppress by the value laden bias of their own forms and by the interest guiding their forms Neville provides a theory of theories that responds to these challenges and addresses the problem of theorizing across different cultures The other problem is how to exercise practical reason across cultures expressive of different civilizations How can human beings be responsible in a world where all values seem culture bound and the obvious solution seems to be moral relativism that trivializes responsibility Neville presents a theory of practical reason oriented to objective norms determined cross culturally and based on a Confucian sense of the ritual character of the most important levels of moral life This book completes Neville s series Axiology of Thinking a trilogy of systematically related studies of valuation in four kinds of thinking imagination interpretation theorizing and the pursuit of responsibility Reconstruction of Thinking and Recovery of the Measure both published by SUNY Press are companion volumes
