The Boarding House:

The Boardinghouse in Nineteenth-Century America Wendy Gamber, 2007-04-16 In nineteenth century America the bourgeois home epitomized family morality and virtue But this era also witnessed massive urban growth and the acceptance of the market as the overarching model for economic relations A rapidly changing environment bred the antithesis of home the urban boardinghouse In this groundbreaking study Wendy Gamber explores the experiences of the numerous people old and young married and single rich and poor who made boardinghouses their homes Gamber contends that the very existence of the boardinghouse helped create the domestic ideal of the single family home Where the home was private the boardinghouse theoretically was public If homes nurtured virtue boardinghouses supposedly bred vice Focusing on the larger cultural meanings and the commonplace realities of women's work she examines how the houses were run the landladies who operated them and the day to day considerations of food cleanliness and petty crime From ravenous bedbugs to penny pinching landladies from disreputable housemates to boarder's beef Gamber illuminates the annoyances and the satisfactions of nineteenth century boarding life

The Boarding House Piotr Paziński, 2018 Originally published in Polish by Nisza Publishing House Poland as Pensjonat in 2009 Title page verso British Boarding Houses in Interwar Women's Literature Terri Mullholland, 2016-10-04 Embraced for the dramatic opportunities afforded by a house full of strangers the British boarding house emerged as a setting for novels published during the interwar period by a diverse range of women writers from Stella Gibbons to Virginia Woolf To use the single room in the boarding house or bedsit Terri Mullholland argues is to foreground a particular experience While the single room represents the freedoms of independent living available to women in the early twentieth century it also marks the precariousness of unmarried women's lives. By placing their characters in this transient space, women writers could explore women's changing social roles and complex experiences: amateur prostitution, lesbian relationships, extra-marital affairs, and abortion outside traditional domestic narrative concerns. Mullholland presents new readings of works by canonical and non-canonical writers including Stella Gibbons, Winifred Holtby, Storm Jameson, Rosamond Lehmann, Dorothy Richardson, Jean Rhys, and Virginia Woolf. A hybrid of the modernist and realist domestic fiction written and read by women, the literature of the single room merges modernism's interest in interior psychological states with the realism of precisely documented exterior spaces, offering a new mode of engagement with the two forms of interiority.
