The Language Of Allegory Defining The Genre:

The Language of Allegory Maureen Quilligan, 1992 The Language of Allegory examines a body of literature not often treated as a unified genre Reading a number of texts that are traditionally characterized as allegories and that cover a wide time span Maureen Quilligan identifies the distinctive generic elements they share Originally published in 1979 this highly regarded work by a well known feminist critic and theorist is now available in paperback back book cover Allegorical Form and Theory in Hildegard of Bingen's Books of Visions Dinah Wouters, 2022-12-05 This book analyses how the three books of visions by Hildegard of Bingen use the allegorical vision as a form of knowledge It describes how the visionary's use of allegory and allegorical exegesis is linked to theories of cognition interpretation and prophecy It argues that the form of the allegorical vision is not just the product of a medieval symbolic mentality but specific to Hildegard's position and the major transformations taking place in the prescholastic intellectual milieu such as the changing use of Scripture or the shift from traditional hermeneutics to cognitive language philosophy The book shows that Hildegard uses traditional forms of knowledge prophecy the vision monastic theology allegorical hermeneutics in startlingly innovative ways by combining them and by revising them for her own time Encyclopedia of Postmodernism Victor E. Taylor, Charles E. Winquist, 2003 Provides comprehensive and authoritative coverage of academic disciplines critical terms and central figures relating to the vast field of postmodern studies Publisher's description Interpretation and Allegory Jon Whitman, 2003 Concentrating on interpretive allegory this book's interdisciplinary approach simultaneously opens and organizes new perspectives on historic developments from pagan Jewish Christian and Islamic commentaries to postmodern critiques From publisher's description The Postmodernist Allegories of Thomas Pynchon Deborah L. Madsen, 1991 This study of all the major narrative works of Thomas Pynchon V The Crying of Lot 49 Gravity's Rainbow Vineland and his early fiction is an attempt to describe the narrative mechanisms that produce the uncertainty and ambiguity noted by all of Pynchon's critics These critics have analyzed the dynamic uncertainties of Pynchon's texts in terms of cybernetics thermodynamics Rilke Weber Jung all terms that are offered by the fiction itself The generic concept of postmodernist allegory allows the critic to speak from a position outside the text and allows us to see that ambiguity and indeterminacy are the effects produced by the way in which the text is constructed The Purple Island and Anatomy in Early Seventeenth-century Literature, Philosophy, and Theology Peter Mitchell, 2007 Sets out to reconstruct and analyze the rationality of Phineas Fletcher's use of figurality in The Purple Island 1633 a poetic allegory of human anatomy This book demonstrates that the analogies and metaphors of literary works share coherence and consistency with anatomy textbooks Allegory and Poetics S. Georgia Nugent, 1984-12-31 A close reading of the Psychomachia shows how the allegory generates its narrative action from verbal play and textual allusion rather than in accordance with mimetic reality A new understanding of the poem's structure reveals the important role of deception throughout Deception in turn is related to the verbal trope of allegory with its deceptive transformation of abstract noun into narrative agent A final chapter explores the analogy between personification allegory and theoretical modelling as cognitive tools Such an allegory is closer in aim to scientific models than to post Romantic fictions
