The Making of Indian English Literature Subhendu Mund,2021-07-08 The Making of Indian English Literature brings together seventeen well researched essays of Subhendu Mund with a long introduction by the author historicising the development of the Indian writing in English while exploring its identity among the many appellations tagged to it The volume demonstrates contrary to popular perceptions that before the official introduction of English education in India Indians had already tried their hands in nearly all forms of literature poetry fiction drama essay biography autobiography book review literary criticism and travel writing Besides translation activities Indians had also started editing and publishing periodicals in English before 1835 Through archival research the author brings to discussion a number of unknown and less discussed texts which contributed to the development of the genre The work includes exclusive essays on such early poets and writers as Kylas Chunder Dutt Shoshee Chunder Dutt Toru Dutt Mirza Moorad Alee Beg Krupabai Saththianadhan Swami Vivekananda H Dutt and Sita Chatterjee and historiographical studies on the various aspects of the genre The author also examines the strategies used by the early writers to indianise the western language and the form of the novel The present volume also demonstrates how from the very beginning Indian writing in English had a subtle nationalist agenda and created a space for protest literature The Making of Indian English Literature will prove an invaluable addition to the studies in Indian writing in English as a source of reference and motivation for further research Please note Taylor Francis does not sell or distribute the Hardback in India Pakistan Nepal Bhutan Bangladesh and Sri Lanka

The Making of English Literature Abraham Mathew (M. Lit.),2011 Paper and the Making of Early Modern Literature Georgina Wilson,2025-09-30 Paper and the Making of Early Modern Literature explores the crucial role of paper in the early history of books and of English literature Taking up four paradigms of literary scholarship authorship composition form and reuse Georgina Wilson shows how the material affordances of paper shaped the work of readers writers and critics of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Looking past the surface of printed texts to less legible forms of labor Wilson models literary critical readings of paper s physical aspects from watermarks to rotatable paper dials in Ben Jonson s Sejanus His Fall and George Wither s emblems sheets and fragments Turning from paper s specific physical attributes to authors who were preoccupied with its imaginative potential Wilson explores how paper s tangible qualities intervened in what readers and writers did with it tracing formalist legal and political debates on the textual and nontextual uses of paper through the works of John Taylor and eighteenth century it narratives Drawing upon examples from early modern drama poetry and prose to consider the real and imagined women and men who made and used paper Wilson demonstrates how early modern paper was both the product of embodied labor and of the early modern imagination Bringing together close reading critical bibliography archival research and literary theory Paper and the Making of Early Modern Literature shows how paper makes literature not only as a physical object but also as a discipline

Carruthers,1879 Humanism, English Literature, and the Translation of Greek, 1430-1560 John Colley,2025-04-10

Humanism English Literature and the Translation of Greek 1430 1560 is the first study to trace the influence of the Quattrocento rebirth of Greek scholarship on fifteenth and sixteenth century English literature It begins with the first signs of humanist Greek in England in and around Duke Humfrey s circle at a time when no English writer could claim significant Greek literacy It ends on the cusp of Elizabethan literary culture when English writers much more frequently translated Ancient Greek into both Latin and the vernacular This period witnessed a surge in the translation of Greek It also witnessed changing beliefs about how and why Greek should be translated at all especially under the growing pressures of the Reformation Building on scholarship in the fields of classical reception translation studies and intellectual history the volume argues that attending to the period s ideas about Greek translation fundamentally alters our perception of Tudor humanism and the classical tradition more widely In linking biblical and patristic translation with the translation of works by pagan authors the book shows that Renaissance humanism was less secular and more wide ranging in its goals and interest than the standard scholarly narrative has claimed By showing continuities between late medieval and early modern literature it further revises arguments for the novelty of the sixteenth century humanists The book ultimately argues that fifteenth and sixteenth century English writers experienced a contradictory relationship to Greek Desire for the language and what it stood for was tempered by the realities of its mediated transmission Desire for Greek was also undercut by the sectarian divisions that the language came to reflect and magnify The Handbook of Specimens of English Literature Joseph Angus,1880
