The Big Burn:

The Big Burn Jeanette Ingold, 2002-06-01 Winner of the Western Writers of America Spur Award for Teen Fiction from the author of Hitch and Paper Daughter A must read for adrenaline junkies VOYA On a hot summer day in 1910 a teenage soldier assembled his rifle A girl argued to save trees on a mountain homestead A young man set out to fight fire None knew that soon the many blazes burning across northern Idaho would blow up and send a wall of flame racing their way Portraying a natural disaster that would dictate how the United States would fight wildfire in the 20th century The Big Burn brings to life a turning point in fire science forestry and history Richly drawn characters doing their best against gigantic odds will grip your heart The realistic depiction of wildfire will make you feel you were there With non fiction Field Notes and an Afterword about firefighting today it s a novel that moves from the 1900s into the 21st century Whether you re an adult or young adult reader you ll come away with a new understanding of nature and a heightened appreciation for the courage and sacrifice of firefighters and settlers Publishers Weekly Montana Book Award Honor Historically accurate and dramatically engaging Teen Reads Presents a vivid picture of a natural disaster while skillfully conveying in fluid prose the individual stories of the three young people Horn Book Fascinating and harrowing for any kid whose tastes run to disaster and survival mixed into a coming of age story Richie s Picks A solid adventure story with a well realized setting Booklist The Big

Burn Harry Montgomery, In the late 19th century America s wilderness was rapidly shrinking under the weight of industrial expansion Vast forests once untouched were being stripped bare by powerful timber companies seeking profit from a seemingly endless supply of trees Railroads extended deeper into the frontier bringing with them settlers machinery and a hunger for resources The logging industry was booming and the land suffered under this momentum Streams clogged with debris mountainsides were stripped of their trees and the land that had once seemed eternal began to vanish Yet amid this progress a growing awareness began to stir among a few voices warning that this reckless consumption could have dire consequences The early environmental movement took root in this context Philosophers and naturalists such as John Muir began to advocate for the protection of America s natural wonders They believed in nature not just as a resource but as something sacred and necessary for the soul of the nation Meanwhile others like Gifford Pinchot began to promote a more pragmatic approach conservation rather than preservation This idea focused on the responsible use of natural resources ensuring they could support both present needs and future generations As the forests fell and rivers ran dark with silt these differing but passionate calls began to gain traction in public discourse Among the most powerful champions of this growing conservation ethic was Theodore Roosevelt Having spent his youth in the wilds of the American West Roosevelt had a personal and political appreciation for the natural world His presidency would become a turning point for the conservation movement With a deep sense of urgency and a fierce independence Roosevelt used his executive power to set aside millions of acres of forestland establish national parks and support the formation of institutions that would protect the environment

He believed that the government had a moral responsibility to act as a steward of the land and he had little patience for those who exploited it for short term gain Roosevelt's administration marked the beginning of an era in which conservation became national policy rather than an obscure ideal The Big Burn Timothy Egan, 2009-10-19 National Book Award winner Timothy Egan turns his historian's eye to the largest ever forest fire in America and offers an epic cautionary tale for our time On the afternoon of August 20 1910 a battering ram of wind moved through the drought stricken national forests of Washington Idaho and Montana whipping the hundreds of small blazes burning across the forest floor into a roaring inferno that jumped from treetop to ridge as it raged destroying towns and timber in the blink of an eye Forest rangers had assembled nearly ten thousand men to fight the fires but no living person had seen anything like those flames and neither the rangers nor anyone else knew how to subdue them Egan recreates the struggles of the overmatched rangers against the implacable fire with unstoppable dramatic force and the larger story of outsized president Teddy Roosevelt and his chief forester Gifford Pinchot that follows is equally resonant Pioneering the notion of conservation Roosevelt and Pinchot did nothing less than create the idea of public land as our national treasure owned by every citizen Even as TR's national forests were smoldering they were saved The heroism shown by his rangers turned public opinion permanently in favor of the forests though it changed the mission of the forest service in ways we can still witness today This e book includes a sample chapter of SHORT NIGHTS OF THE SHADOW CATCHER The Big Burn Jeanette Ingold, 2003-08 The 2003 Spur Award Winner for Juvenile Fiction is now in paperback Ingold paints a portrait of an event of the summer of 1910 that altered the face of Montana and Idaho and changed the way wildfires are fought Skiing, 1970-10 The Story of the Great Fire, Boston, November 9-10. 1872, Etc pseud CARLETON, 1872 Reminiscences of the Old Fire Laddies and Volunteer Fire Departments of New York and Brooklyn J. Frank Kernan, 1885 Place Names of West Aberdeenshire James Macdonald, 1900 The Standard, 1894 The Big Burn Don Miller, 2012 The Girl's Own Annual, 1899 Temple bar, 1898 Memories; Or, The Chronicles of Birkenhead Hilda Gemlin, 1892 The Story of the Volunteer Fire Department of the City of New York George William Sheldon, 1882 The Nidologist, 1896 Chambers's Journal of Popular Literature, Science and Arts, 1890 Annual Report Indiana. Dept. of Geology and Natural Resources, 1883 Present at the Creation Michael C. Blumm, 2011 This review of Timothy's Egan's 2009 book The Big Burn Teddy Roosevelt the Fire That Saved America lauds Egan's storytelling while questioning the title of his book Egan tells a gripping tale about the largest wildfire in North America a 1910 blaze in the Bitterroot Mountains along the largely unroaded Idaho Montana border that cost a hundred people their lives and burned an area fifty percent larger than Yellowstone National Park Egan claims that the big wildfire secured the young U S Forest Service's role as a public land manager and established conservation as a politically viable policy that encouraged Theodore Roosevelt to attempt to recapture the presidency in 1912 However at the center of Egan's story is not Roosevelt but Gifford Pinchot whom Roosevelt appointed the first chief of the Forest Service in 1905 Pinchot convinced Roosevelt to preserve more public land outside of Alaska than any president before or since and he made the Forest Service into one of the most respected government agencies in twentieth century America But the Big Burn s legacy also led Pinchot s successors to give priority to fighting public land wildlifes which damaged the ecology and ironically led to larger wildfires The review suggests that the Pinchot Roosevelt conservation era produced more public support for environmental protection than ever in American history and that the political lessons of that era may be useful in a twenty first century challenged by catastrophic oil spills and global climate change
