The final exam will cover chapters 6, 7, 8 and 9, with a few very basic questions from chapters 10 and 11. Recommended ways to prepare for final exam:

- review objectives, notes, worksheets, charts, quizzes and exams.
- make your own study guide
- If you missed questions on test or quizzes, reread those topics in the textbook.
- practice problems from each chapter: Appendix D in Pearson Chemistry has a problem bank with many of the answers included in the appendix. Use these for practice
- use quizlets for reviewing vocabulary, naming compounds, or other topics, most chapters of Pearson have quizlets already made or you can make your own... I have reviewed the quizlets listed on your powerschool pages and listed only those I felt were accurate.
- Study buddies, quizzing classmates or other students taking chemistry
- Take the standardized test in the textbook at the end of each chapter. I will post the answers to each of these

The exam will consist of 65-80 questions, all multiple choice. There will be copies of the periodic table, polyatomic ion chart, and transition metal charts attached to the back of the exam. You will need your calculator to complete the final exam.

Learning Science Through Computer Games and Simulations National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Science Education, Committee on Science Learning: Computer Games, Simulations, and Education, 2011-05-12 At a time when scientific and technological competence is vital to the nation's future the weak performance of U.S. students in science reflects the uneven quality of current science education. Although young children come to school with innate curiosity and intuitive ideas about the world around them science classes rarely tap this potential. Many experts have called for a new approach to science education based on recent and ongoing research on teaching and learning. In this approach simulations and games could play a significant role by addressing many goals and mechanisms for learning science: the motivation to learn science, conceptual understanding, science process skills, understanding of the nature of science, scientific discourse and argumentation, and identification with science and science learning. To explore this potential, Learning Science Computer Games Simulations and Education reviews the available research on learning science through interaction with digital simulations and games. It considers the potential of digital games and simulations to contribute to learning science in schools, in informal out-of-school settings, and everyday life. The book also identifies the areas in which more research and research-based development is needed to fully capitalize on this potential. Learning Science will guide academic researchers, developers, publishers, and entrepreneurs from the digital simulation and gaming community and education practitioners and policy makers toward the formation of research and development partnerships that will facilitate rich intellectual collaboration. Industry, government agencies, and foundations will play a significant role through start-up and ongoing support to ensure that digital games and simulations will not only excite and entertain but also motivate and educate.

God's Perfect Plan Mark Paul Bishop, 2011-06 While working in the ER one evening the nurse called to tell me that Pastor Steve would like to talk with me. As I shared my thoughts with Pastor Steve the simplicity of his responses almost left me speechless. It was from this life changing conversation that Dr. Mark Paul Bishop began a life devoted to Christ, exhausting his human potential in service to his fellow man. God's Perfect Plan is Dr. Mark's spiritual autobiography and details his faith journey as he wrestles with issues directly pointing to the deficiency of our lives a deficiency that he learned can only be filled through a relationship with Christ. Readers will be inspired as they seek their own answers to questions regarding God's perfect plan in their own lives. Woven into the fabric of God's perfect plan for you you will discover the role of our social institutions of the family, church, school, community and government. You will be further amazed by the manner in which God incubates His plan for your life through His divine guidance and protection. See how this family physician, despite skepticism and wavering faith, demonstrates how God's purpose and plan is clear in our lives if we only look for it. The practical application of Christianity is not a myth it really does work. See for yourself as you discover God's perfect plan. Chemistry, Student Study Guide James E.
