A Comparison of Mathematics Programs for Able Junior High School Students Miriam L. Goldberg, 1966

Instructor ,1972-02      Teaching Mathematics for the 21st Century Linda Huetinck, Sara N. Munshin, 2008

This third edition of Teaching Mathematics for the 21st Century continues to help teachers let the secret out to open up to their students the wonderful discoveries and challenges of the pattern making and problem solving aspects of a fascinating subject mathematics. The rationale remains the same to enable prospective and current teachers to access and use tools and strategies to effectively teach mathematics to contemporary students. Changing demographics, knowledge of how people learn, and technology all impact the way we educate our young people. This edition incorporates lessons and strategies from programs that have proven success in many types of classrooms. Many of these examples help students connect mathematics to real life situations and communicate their understanding of the underlying concepts. Although technology is constantly being upgraded, ways to increase student motivation through its application remains a goal. For example, since applets can enhance a lesson, whether the teacher uses a computer projector, a smart board, or has students work individually on computers, we have identified several sources of mathematics applets that can be correlated to various lessons. Research citations and summaries have been updated to reflect current information on teaching and learning. For future teachers

Games Creditors Play Winton E. Williams, 1998. A comprehensive analysis of consumer debt collection practices; this book examines how creditors use self-help and judicial collections remedies that are often socially beneficial but in other instances counterproductive. It also describes how debtors use and abuse Chapter 7 and 13 bankruptcy proceedings and how both debtors and creditors have increasingly benefited from the workout facilitating services of a private sector initiative recently made available to most Americans: the various Consumer Credit Counseling Services affiliated with the National Foundation for Consumer Credit. In this fascinating and well-written work, Williams analyzes the positive and negative results of collection as well as the results of debtor response.      The Lancet ,1936      Introduction to Teaching John F. This readable book offers the neophyte student of education exactly what the title states: an introduction to the many facets of teaching. Intended for use as a college text, it provides a philosophical, theoretical, and practical examination and explanation of schools as social institutions: the students, the teachers, and administrators. The school curriculum, the learning process, and the organization and execution of the teaching process are clearly defined. Student teachers are challenged to explore further by the section entitled "On Your Own" in each chapter. The text examines the what of education, allowing a student to speculate
