Hedges, Jeffrey C. Valentine, 2009-02-05 Praise for the first edition The Handbook is a comprehensive treatment of literature synthesis and provides practical advice for anyone deep in the throes of just teetering on the brink of or attempting to decipher a meta analysis Given the expanding application and importance of literature synthesis understanding both its strengths and weaknesses is essential for its practitioners and consumers This volume is a good beginning for those who wish to gain that understanding Chance Meta analysis as the statistical analysis of a large collection of results from individual studies is called has now achieved a status of respectability in medicine This respectability when combined with the slight hint of mystique that sometimes surrounds meta analysis ensures that results of studies that use it are treated with the respect they deserve The Handbook of Research Synthesis is one of the most important publications in this subject both as a definitive reference book and a practical manual British Medical Journal When the first edition of The Handbook of Research Synthesis was published in 1994 it quickly became the definitive reference for researchers conducting meta analyses of existing research in both the social and biological sciences In this fully revised second edition editors Harris Cooper Larry Hedges and Jeff Valentine present updated versions of the

Handbook's classic chapters as well as entirely new sections reporting on the most recent cutting edge developments in the field. Research synthesis is the practice of systematically distilling and integrating data from a variety of sources in order to draw more reliable conclusions about a given question or topic. The Handbook of Research Synthesis and Meta Analysis draws upon years of groundbreaking advances that have transformed research synthesis from a narrative craft into an important scientific process in its own right. Cooper, Hedges and Valentine have assembled leading authorities in the field to guide the reader through every stage of the research synthesis process: problem formulation, literature search and evaluation, statistical integration and report preparation. The Handbook of Research Synthesis and Meta Analysis incorporates state of the art techniques from all quantitative synthesis traditions. Distilling a vast technical literature and many informal sources, the Handbook provides a portfolio of the most effective solutions to the problems of quantitative data integration. Among the statistical issues addressed by the authors are the synthesis of non independent data sets, fixed and random effects methods, the performance of sensitivity analyses and model assessments, and the problem of missing data. The Handbook of Research Synthesis and Meta Analysis also provides a rich treatment of the non statistical aspects of research synthesis. Topics include searching the literature and developing schemes for gathering information from study reports. Those engaged in research synthesis will also find useful advice on how tables, graphs and narration can be used to provide the most meaningful communication of the results of research synthesis. In addition, the editors address the potentials and limitations of research synthesis and its future directions. The past decade has been a period of enormous growth in the field of research synthesis. The second edition Handbook thoroughly revises original chapters to assure that the volume remains the most authoritative source of information for researchers undertaking meta analysis today. In response to the increasing use of research synthesis in the formation of public policy, the second edition includes a new chapter on both the strengths and limitations of research synthesis in policy debates.

Şekercioğlu, Natalia Ocampo-Peñuela, Monte Neate-Clegg, Jill Jankowski, John Terborgh, Carlos A. Peres, 2026-01-09. Long term bird monitoring, ecological research and conservation projects that integrate community involvement, citizen science, capacity building, outreach, environmental education and local job creation provide some of the best examples of biodiversity monitoring and conservation programs. The goal of this research topic is to provide a global overview and exemplary case studies of long term 10 years bird monitoring, ecological research and conservation projects focused on the effects of global change on tropical bird communities. Long term and locally based biodiversity monitoring programs are essential for understanding and mitigating the effects of global change on tropical biodiversity while providing capacity building, environmental education and public outreach. However, these programs are lacking in most tropical countries that harbor most of the world's biodiversity. Birds are the best known major group of organisms; comprise excellent environmental indicators; are relatively easy to monitor and as charismatic flagship species are met with enthusiasm and interest by people worldwide Bird monitoring programs using mist nets and bird banding ringing are especially valuable as these safe and well established techniques enable the use of capture mark recapture CMR models to measure population change and other demographic parameters while making it possible to obtain blood and feather samples for genetic and isotopic analyses examine the birds for parasites and pathogens and study home range size habitat use and movement ecology of the birds by tracking them with geolocators radio or satellite transmitters Equally important for conservation the ability to capture and release birds makes it possible to conduct hands on ornithological training environmental education awareness raising and community outreach activities with students conservationists villagers decision makers journalists and other local people Bird banding tracking and nest monitoring programs provide local jobs for research assistants who often go on to productive careers in conservation education research or ecotourism The costs involved are relatively modest and most of the money is spent locally on salaries room board and services Long term bird banding and ornithological research stations often provide the nuclei infrastructure and staff for monitoring education and conservation programs focused on other taxa Bird monitoring and ecological research programs that integrate conservation ecological research environmental education capacity building and income generation are cost effective tools to achieve the goals of community based biodiversity conservation and poverty reduction in the developing world Such locally based and long term bird monitoring programs should be encouraged established and supported throughout the tropics For this special issue we will especially solicit long term 10 years research papers that Take place in understudied regions and work with underserved communities Focus on the impacts of climate change infectious diseases and other emerging threats Investigate particularly susceptible avian taxa and the reasons for their declines Address the ecological implications of these declines including reductions in scavenging seed dispersal pollination predation nutrient deposition and ecosystem engineering Study bird populations with banding nest monitoring or geocator radio satellite tracking and Provide examples of best practice in integrating avian conservation and ecology research with community based conservation citizen science capacity building and environmental education
