Hunting and the Ivory Tower Douglas Higbee,David Bruzina,2018-05-11 Seventeen hunter scholars explore the hunting experience and question common negative stereotypes Despite the academy having a reputation for supporting broad and open inquiry in scholarship some academics have not extended this open minded support to colleagues personal pursuits A variety of scholars enjoy hunting which has been stereotyped by some as an activity of the unsophisticated In Hunting and the Ivory Tower Douglas Higbee and David Bruzina present essays by seventeen hunter scholars who explore the hunting experience and question negative assumptions about hunting made by intellectuals and academics who do not hunt Higbee and Bruzina suspect most academics understanding of hunting is based on brief television news reports of hunter politicians and commercials for reality TV shows such as Duck Dynasty The editors contend that few scholars appreciate the complexities of hunting or give much thought to its ethical ecological and cultural ramifications Through this anthology they hope to start a conversation about both hunting and academia and how they relate The contributors to this anthology are academics from a variety of disciplines each with firsthand hunting experience Their essays vary in style and tone from the scholarly to the personal and represent the different ways in which scholars engage with their avocation The essays are grouped into three sections the first focuses on the often fraught relation between hunters and academic culture the second section offers personal accounts of hunting by academics and the third portrays hunting from an explicitly academic point of view whether in terms of value theory metaphysics or history Combined these essays render hunting as a culturally rich deeply personal and intellectually satisfying experience worthy of further discussion A foreword is provided by Robert DeMott the Edwin and Ruth Kennedy Distinguished Professor at Ohio University in Athens Ohio He is a teacher writer critic and internationally respected expert on novelist John Steinbeck

Broadwater,2012-02-27 A hundred and fifty years ago naval warfare entered a new phase with the introduction of ironclad vessels On March 9 1862 the USS Monitor prototype of this new class of warships fought the Confederate ironclad CSS Virginia at Hampton Roads Virginia after the Virginia had ravaged the Union fleet blockading the James River sinking larger seemingly more powerful wooden warships in a potent demonstration of the power of an armored heavily gunned steam powered warship In the world s first clash between iron armored warships Monitor and Virginia exchanged gunfire at close range for nearly four hours Neither inflicted serious damage on the other While a technical stalemate the events at Hampton Roads changed naval warfare forever In the United States and abroad iron and steam would soon replace wood and sail for warship construction Less than nine months later the now famous Monitor was under tow heading south to Beaufort North Carolina when she sank in heavy seas with substantial loss of life Monitor was a total and irretrievable loss even the location of her final resting place became a mystery Not until 1973 was the inverted hull located and in 1974 excavation of the wreck began under the auspices of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in partnership with the US Navy The decision to place the Monitor in a protected zone a national marine sanctuary marked another historic first for the vessel The story of this decision the raising of the turret and the subsequent management of the historic resource adds another layer of history to the Monitor s fascinating story Sidebars in the book flesh out details and add anecdotal color to the story of Monitor and of the efforts to preserve and interpret the site Lavish illustrations photographs site drawings and artifact sketches complement the informative and highly readable account by the archaeologist who planned and directed the major expeditions that resulted in recovery of many of the Monitor s most significant objects as well as the remains of two Union soldiers who were only recently interred in Arlington National Cemetery more than 150 years after their deaths     Texas Rattlesnake Roundups Clark E.
