Closing the Achievement Gap Belinda Williams,1996-10-15 It s no secret that students attending urban schools in the United States do not fare as well on measures of achievement as their rural and suburban counterparts According to Belinda Williams and her coauthors this gap is largely due to a little acknowledged fact that poor and minority students bring culturally distinct values and beliefs to the classroom that are often incompatible with the biases inherent in the curriculum assessment measures and teachers themselves This second edition of Closing the Achievement Gap argues that if education reform is to work educators must become more sensitive to the worldviews of disadvantaged students and to incorporate this awareness into their day to day work Teachers principals and legislators must Learn about cultural perceptions of human development Apply this knowledge to professional development and comprehensive reform and Align political policy accordingly In addition to providing a framework for meeting these challenges this book offers specific suggestions for bridging the cultural divide through such diverse methods as direct vocabulary instruction opportunity to learn strategies and school level organizational reform Thoroughly researched and eloquently written it is a vital resource for ensuring that students of all backgrounds succeed equally well in the classroom

Memories of the Men who Saved the Union Donn Piatt,1887      Students of Color and the Achievement Gap Richard R. Valencia,2015-03-05 Students of Color and the Achievement Gap is a comprehensive landmark analysis of an incontrovertible racialized reality in U S K 12 public education the relentless achievement gap between low socioeconomic students of color and their economically advantaged White counterparts Award winning author and scholar Richard Valencia provides an authoritative and systemic treatment of the achievement gap focusing on Black and Latino Latina students He examines the societal and educational factors that help to create and maintain the achievement gap by drawing from critical race theory an asset based perspective and a systemic inequality approach. By showing how racialized opportunity structures in society and schools ultimately result in racialized patterns of academic achievement in schools, Valencia shows how the various indicators of the achievement gap are actually symptoms of the societal and school quality gaps. Following each of these concerns, Valencia provides a number of reform suggestions that can lead to systemic transformations of K-12 education. Students of Color and the Achievement Gap makes a persuasive and well-documented case that school success for students of color and the empowerment of their parents can only be fully understood and realized when contextualized within broader political, economic, and cultural frameworks.
