Needlework of Mary Queen of Scots Margaret Swain,2013-08-31 Although a large body of needlework has always been attributed to Mary Queen of Scots little attempt was made to authenticate these pieces or to explain how so energetic and impetuous a woman could have found pleasure in the meticulous craft of embroidery This is the first comprehensive study of the Queen as a needlewoman describing all the works associated with her For the first time every piece marked by her cipher or monogram is illustrated in full A biographical outline provides the framework for understanding her work by setting it in the context of her unsettled and stormy life It recounts the influence of her formative years in France and her absorption in needlework during the years of imprisonment Many of the embroideries can be seen in British country houses and in Scottish collections A significant work in the history of costume and textiles and sheds a new light on those little known aspects of Mary Queen of Scot s life The first comprehensive study of the Queen of Scots as a needlewoman and how such an energetic and impetuous woman could have found pleasure in the meticulous craft of embroidery Illustrated in full with 12 colour 70 black white photographs and 20 illustrations Margaret Swain is an expert on the history of costume and textiles and was awarded an MBE for her work on embroidery and tapestries

Emblems for a Queen Michael Bath,2008-10-14 The many pieces of embroidery made by Mary Queen of Scots and by Elizabeth Countess of Shrewsbury are among the best known and most important examples of historical embroidery Most notable is the extent to which the embroideries executed by the two women constitute a single distinctive body of creative work The purpose of this book is to address the many unanswered questions surrounding the meaning and purpose of their embroidery and above all the sources and patterns used for their imagery

Pens and

Needles Susan Frye,2011-11-29 The Renaissance woman whether privileged or of the artisan or the middle class was trained in the expressive arts of needlework and painting which were often given precedence over writing Pens and Needles is the first book to examine all these forms as interrelated products of self fashioning and communication Because early modern people saw verbal and visual texts as closely related Susan Frye discusses the connections between the many forms of women s textualities including notes in samplers alphabets both stitched and penned initials ciphers and extensive texts like needlework pictures self portraits poetry and pamphlets as well as commissioned artwork architecture and interior design She examines works on paper and cloth by such famous figures as Elizabeth I Mary Queen of Scots and Bess of Hardwick as well as the output of journeywomen needleworkers and miniaturists Levina Teerlinc and Esther Inglis and their lesser known sisters in the English colonies of the New World Frye shows how traditional women s work was a way for women to communicate with one another and to shape their own identities within familial intellectual religious and historical traditions

Pens and Needles offers insights into women's lives and into such literary texts as Shakespeare's Othello and Cymbeline and Mary Sidney Wroth's Urania     Renaissance Clothing and the Materials of Memory Ann Rosalind Jones, Peter Stallybrass, 2000 During the late sixteenth century fashion first took on the sense of restless change in contrast to the older sense of fashioning or making. As fashionings clothes were perceived as material forms of personal and social identity which made the man or woman. In Renaissance Clothing and the Materials of Memory Jones and Stallybrass argue that the making and transmission of fabrics and clothing were central to the making of Renaissance culture. Their examination explores the role of clothes as forms of memory transmitted from master to servant from friend to friend from lover to lover. This 2001 book offers a close reading of literary texts, paintings, textiles, theatrical documents and ephemera to reveal how clothing and textiles were crucial to the making and unmaking of concepts of status, gender, sexuality and religion in the Renaissance. The book is illustrated with a wide range of images from portraits to embroidery

The Edge of Christendom on the Early Modern Stage Lisa Hopkins, 2022-03-07 Throughout the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the edges of Europe were under pressure from the Ottoman Turks. This book explores how Shakespeare and his contemporaries represented places where Christians came up against Turks including Malta, Tunis, Hungary and Armenia. Some forms of Christianity itself might seem alien so the book also considers the interface between traditional Catholicism, new forms of Protestantism and Greek and Russian orthodoxy. But it also finds that the concept of Christendom was under threat in other places some much nearer to home. Edges of Christendom could be found in areas that were or had been pagan such as Rome itself and the Danelaw which once covered northern England; they could even be found in English homes and gardens where imported foreign flowers and exotic new ingredients challenged the concept of what was native and natural

Maids and Mistresses, Cousins and Queens Susan Frye, Karen Robertson, 1999-01-28 This collection of sixteen essays considers evidence for the varied forms of women's alliances in early modern England. Women who were prohibited from direct participation in the institutional structures that shaped the lives of men constructed informal connections with other women for survival, advancement and creativity. The essays presented here consider a variety of communities formed among groups as diverse as serving women, vagrants, aristocrats and authors in order to consider the historical traces of women's connections

Exhibition of the Royal House of Stuart New Gallery (London, England), 1889     Living in Posterity Jan Frans van Dijkhuizen, 2004 Living in Posterity presented to Bart Westerweel on his retirement as Professor of Early Modern English literature at the University of Leiden brings together thirty nine essays on a wide variety of subjects and themes. The contributors, scholars from the Netherlands and abroad, have drawn inspiration from the many dualities that are characteristic of Westerweel's work such as word, image, Anglo-Dutch, familiar, other, traditional, modern, and form, function. The result is a colourful mosaic of essays on history, culture, art and literature from the first century to the modern era. The binding theme of this richly diverse book lies in the idea of the continuity between the past and the present, the cohesion between what was and what is. As such Living in
