History is apt to be and some think that it should be a mere series of dry, uncoloured statements. Such an event occurred such a word was uttered, such a deed was done at this date or the other. We give references to our authorities to men who heard of the events or even saw them when they happened. But we, the writer and the readers, see nothing; we only offer or accept bald and imperfect information. If we try to write history on another method we become picturesque; we are composing a novel not striving painfully to attain the truth. Yet when we know not the details, the aspect of dwellings now ruinous, the hue and cut of garments long wasted into dust, the passing frown or smile or tone of the actors and the speakers in these dramas of life long ago, the clutch of Bothwell at his dagger's hilt when men spoke to him in the street, the flush of Darnley's fair face as Mary and he quarrelled at Stirling before his murder, then we know not the real history, the real truth. Now and then such a detail of gesture or of change of countenance is recorded by an eyewitness and brings us for a moment into more vivid contact with the past. But we could only know it and judge the actors and their conduct if we could see the personages in their costume as they lived, passing by in some magic mirror from scene to scene. The stage as in Schiller's Marie Stuart comes nearest to reality if only the facts given by the poet were real and next in vividness comes the novel such as Scott's Abbot with its picture of Mary at Loch Leven when she falls into an hysterical fit at the mention of Bastian's marriage on the night of Darnley's death. Far less intimate than these imaginary pictures of genius are the statements of History, dull when they are not picturesque and when they are picturesque sometimes prejudiced, inaccurate and misleading.

Mary Stuart - 1587 (Celebrated Crimes Series) Alexandre Dumas, 2015-06-29 This antiquarian book contains Alexandre Dumas's work Mary Stuart. It was first published as part of his eight volume series Celebrated Crimes 1839-40 and recounts the fascinating story of Mary Queen of Scots from her early childhood to her abdication, exile in England and execution. Told by the master story teller Alexandre Dumas, it constitutes a thrilling and highly entertaining retelling of the events that is not to be missed by fans and collectors of his seminal work. Alexandre Dumas 1802-1870 was a famous French writer. He is best remembered for his exciting romantic sagas including The Three Musketeers and The Count of Monte Cristo. Despite making a great deal of money from his writing, Dumas was almost perpetually penniless thanks to his decidedly extravagant lifestyle. His novels have been translated into nearly a hundred different languages and have inspired over 200 motion pictures. Many of the earliest books, particularly those dating back to the 1900s and before, are now extremely scarce and increasingly expensive. We are republishing this antiquarian book in an affordable modern high quality edition, complete with a specially commissioned new biography of the author.
