Unseemly Pictures Helen Pierce,2008 This engaging book is the first full study of the satirical print in seventeenth century England from the rule of James I to the Regicide It considers graphic satire both as a particular pictorial category within the wider medium of print and as a vehicle for political agitation criticism and debate Helen Pierce demonstrates that graphic satire formed an integral part of a wider culture of political propaganda and critique during this period and she presents many witty and satirical prints in the context of such related media as manuscript verses ballads pamphlets and plays She also challenges the commonly held notion that a visual iconography of politics and satire in England originated during the 1640s tracing the roots of this iconography back into native and European graphic cultures and traditions Published for the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art and Archaeology ,2000 Rubenianum Rubenianum,2001 The Van Dyck year 1999 and the various exhibitions organized in

Antwerp on that particular occasion enabled both the Wetenschappelijk Onderzoeksgemeenschap Vlaamse Renaissance en

Barokkunst and the Rubenianum to organize an international colloquium in the painter s birthplace from 17 to 19 May 1999

The main aim of this event was to get a clearer picture of the actual state of research on the various aspects of an artistic personality that is fascinating in so many ways It was a great pleasure to find so many scholars prepared to present their conclusions and ideas in the form of specific case studies They discussed aspects of biographical evidence technique style and iconography within the wider framework of the painter s life and work They also shed new light on Van Dyck s personality influence and fame The here published acts of the Antwerp Van Dyck colloquium contain the revised and updated texts of twenty lectures Pigments of English Medieval Wall Painting Helen Howard,2003 In Pigments of English

Medieval Wall Painting Helen Howard demonstrates that the techniques of wall painting in medieval England were far more complex than had previously been supposed This is the first systematic analysis of the pigments employed in medieval wall paintings in northern Europe covering an extensive selection of schemes from a variety of sites including parish churches cathedrals and abbeys Canterbury Westminster Norwich Winchester St Albans Sherborne and Durham The nature and extent of the palette used is revealed as well as the sophistication with which pigments were applied to achieve differing effects

Thirty pigments are detected including four previously unknown in the context of English medieval wall paintings vivianite salt green kermes lake and madder lake Also discovered are three alterations of pigments the lightening of red lead alteration of vivianite to a yellow form and the transformation of verdigris to a blue chloride based alteration product The use of different binding media employed for particular pigments in a single paint layer demonstrates the complex manner in which paintings were executed The findings discussed in the context of wall painting sculptural polychromy and panel painting techniques in medieval northern Europe show the broad chronological development in the choice fabrication and application of materials linked to changes in artistic intent technology and workshop practice Beautifully illustrated with more than 200 colour plates Pigments of English Medieval Wall Painting has significant implications for the conservation methods of such paintings and is an important source of information for all those interested in pigments and paintings
