

Molecular Spectroscopy

- ◆ Molecular spectroscopy The study of which frequencies of electromagnetic radiation are absorbed or emitted by a particular substance and the correlation of these frequencies with details of molecular structure.

- we study three types of molecular spectroscopy

Region of the Electromagnetic Spectrum	Frequency (hetz)	Type of Spectroscopy	Absorption of Electromagnetic Radiation Results in Transition Between
Radio frequency	$3 \times 10^7$ - $9 \times 10^8$	Nuclear magnetic resonance	Nuclear spin states
Infrared	$1 \times 10^{13}$ - $1 \times 10^{14}$	Infrared	Vibrational energy levels
Ultraviolet-visible	$2.5 \times 10^{14}$ - $1.5 \times 10^{15}$	Ultraviolet-visible	Electronic energy levels

Molecular Structure and Spectroscopy Section on Physical Chemistry (INTERNATIONAL UNION OF PURE AND APPLIED CHEMISTRY). Commission on Molecular Structure and Spectroscopy, 1963      Molecular Spectra and Molecular Structure - Vol I Gerhard Herzberg, 2013-04-18 I have endeavoured to give a presentation which is readable by the beginner in the field and also will be useful to those who do or want to do research work in this field In order to assist the former I have frequently made use of small type for those sections that are not necessary for an understanding of the fundamentals For the benefit of those working in the field numerous references to original papers have been included A satisfactory presentation of molecular spectra and molecular structure is nowadays not possible without treating thoroughly apart from the empirical results the theoretical background also Therefore I have included as much of the theory of molecular spectra as is possible without going into the more difficult mathematical details A large number of diagrams graphical representations of eigenfunctions and potential curves as well as energy level diagrams serve to illustrate and to explain the theory On the other hand I have added numerous carefully selected spectrograms of bands and band systems some of which have been taken specially for this purpose in order to give an accurate idea of the experimental material that forms the basis of the developments      Spectroscopy And Molecular Structure Gernald W. King, 1972      Equilibrium Molecular Structures Jean Demaison, James E. Boggs, Attila G. Csaszar, 2016-04-19 Molecular structure is the most basic information about a substance determining most of its properties Determination of accurate structures is hampered in that every method applies its own definition of structure and thus results from different sources can yield significantly different results Sophisticated protocols exist to account for these      Molecular Spectra and Molecular Structure Gerhard Herzberg, Klaus-Peter Huber, John William Tranter Spinks, 1979-12-31 Since the publication in 1950 of Vol I Spectra of Diatomic Molecules of Molecular Spectra and Molecular Structure much progress has been made in the field While there have been some important refinements in the theory of diatomic molecular spectra most of the advances have been in the further exploration of individual spectra Not only has the number of molecules about which some spectroscopic data are available been increased by a factor of 2 to 3 but also the spectroscopic information about the molecules known in 1950 has been vastly extended This is due to the observation of new electronic states about three times as many as known before the enormous improvements in the accuracy of the constants of the states known in 1950 and the determination of higher order constants In view of the increasing use of spectroscopic information on diatomic molecules in other fields of physics in chemistry and in astrophysics it appeared desirable to prepare an up to date version of the table of molecular constants in the appendix of Vol I This updating proved to be far more time consuming than originally anticipated and it is only now 10 years that we are able to present such a table which instead after its initiation of the original 80 pages plus 30 pages of bibliography now fills a volume of 700 pages In the interest of economy and unlike the original version the new table has

Nonlinear Spectroscopy for Molecular Structure Determination Robert W. Field, 1998 A large variety of nonlinear spectroscopic methods have so far been developed and applied to studies of molecular structure and dynamics Some of these methods utilize complex techniques making it difficult to understand the underlying principles Furthermore most of these methods are referred to by nicknames or acronyms which keeps them shrouded in mystery for most non specialists who are thereby discouraged from mastering and applying the methods to molecular systems Under these circumstances it was judged appropriate and timely to overview those nonlinear spectroscopic methods which are currently particularly useful for studies of molecular structure and dynamics Thus the Commission on Molecular Structure and Spectroscopy of the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry decided to publish a book intended to provide an introduction to nonlinear spectroscopy for non specialists
