Handbook on the Politics of Antarctica Klaus Dodds, Alan D. Hemmings, Peder Roberts, 2017-01-27 The Antarctic and Southern Ocean are hotspots for contemporary endeavours to oversee the last frontier of the Earth. The Handbook on the Politics of Antarctica offers a wide ranging and comprehensive overview of the governance, geopolitics, international law, cultural studies and history of the region. Four thematic sections take readers from the earliest human encounters to contemporary resource exploitation and climate change. Written by leading experts, the Handbook brings together the very best interdisciplinary social science and humanities scholarship on the Antarctic and Southern Ocean.

Antarctic Ecosystems Alex D. Rogers, Nadine M. Johnston, Eugene J. Murphy, Andrew Clarke, 2012-03-12 Since its discovery, Antarctica has held a deep fascination for biologists. Extreme environmental conditions, seasonality and isolation have led to some of the most striking examples of natural selection and adaptation on Earth. Paradoxically, some of these adaptations may pose constraints on the ability of the Antarctic biota to respond to climate change. Parts of Antarctica are showing some of the largest changes in temperature and other environmental conditions in the world. In this volume, published in association with the Royal Society, leading polar scientists present a synthesis of the latest research on the biological systems in Antarctica, covering organisms from microbes to vertebrate higher predators. This book comes at a time when new technologies and approaches allow the implications of climate change and other direct human impacts on Antarctica to be viewed at a range of scales, across entire regions, whole ecosystems and down to the level of species and variation within their genomes. Chapters address both Antarctic terrestrial and marine ecosystems and the scientific and management challenges of the future are explored.

Science, Technology, and New Challenges to Ocean Law Harry N. Scheiber, James Kraska, Moon-Sang Kwon, 2015-08-25 Science, Technology and New Challenges to Ocean Law offers fresh perspectives on a set of vital issues in the field of ocean law and policy. Since the early period of the industrial revolution, successive waves of revolutionary scientific discoveries and technological innovations have intensified the global population's exploitation of ocean and coastal resources. In this volume, several leading authorities in the field address major dimensions of the interface of science, technology and ocean law, both historically and in current day perspective, and emergent challenges in legal ordering of ocean uses for sustainability and equitability. Among the topics that are analysed in these readable, accessible papers are ecosystem approaches to resource management, the historic interplay of science and military concerns, the place of science in dispute settlement processes, the varied human uses of the seabed, the roles in ocean governance of indigenous peoples, legal issues in fisheries management and conservation, and special regional problems of the Arctic, the Bering Strait, the South China Sea and the eastern Mediterranean The urgent importance of the subjects addressed here together with the variety of disciplinary approaches deployed by the authors enhance the value of this book s unique contribution to the literature of ocean studies Antarctic ,2001 Antarctica Keith Suter,1979 Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean: Meeting the Challenge for Conserving Earth Ecosystems in the Long Term Monica M. C. Muelbert,2024-12-24 National and international agencies need assessments of change in ecosystems and their drivers in order to sustain natural systems to maintain the delivery of services and to meet the challenge for conserving Earth ecosystems in the long term In marine systems change may arise directly from human activities e g fisheries indirectly from local or global activities cascading effects through food webs from fisheries or changing environments from climate change and or ocean acidification or from naturally varying processes A particular challenge for managers is to identify how dangerous future climate change will be for ecosystems and their services and whether mitigation or adaptation may be needed in advance in order to achieve the conservation requirements For regions of international attention particularly those that have the attention of many management or policy oriented bodies a standardized process is needed to harmonize the scientific information on the status and trends in ecosystems used by the different bodies That process also needs to ensure the information is available in a timely manner For example assessments of change in habitats species and or food webs in the Southern Ocean are currently compiled separately for at least ten different international organizations or processes A Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean MEASO aims to harmonize that information for policy makers This assessment began with an international conference in April 2018 <http://www.measo2018.aq> where it was agreed to undertake the first MEASO over 2018 2019 with the view to provide the outcomes to relevant bodies such as the Scientific Committee for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources soon after Italian Antarctic Expedition 1996-1997 Carlo Alberto Ricci,1998 The Future of the Antarctic Greenpeace International,1985 Antarctica ,1984 Actes Du Symposium ,2003 Through the First Antarctic Night, 1898-1899 Frederick Albert Cook,1900 US edition published by Doubleday McClure New York 1900 Proceedings of the Workshop on Antarctic Earth Sciences 2002 Giuliano Brancolini,Claudio Ghezzo,A.
