Revolutionary. From a Semiotic Angle Sayantan Dasgupta,2017-05-19 Essay from the year 2017 in the subject History Miscellaneous University of Calcutta Indian Statistical Institute course Masters language English abstract This essay is about using a semiotic angle to evaluate the existence and activities of a soldier and a revolutionary in a stratified manner The most common definitional difference between a soldier and a revolutionary is that a soldier is a person who serves in an army and obeys orders given to him by a government and a revolutionary is someone who is involved in causing a complete or dramatic change in a society country or in the international sphere My concern here is the projection of a soldier who is a part of a national government and a revolutionary in both national and international sphere The word soldier is used almost unanimously in a positive sense But the word revolutionary is used in both positive and negative sense The reason is a soldier is always on the government s side whereas a revolutionary stands against the government I am not here taking into account the notion of government in exile as I am here dealing with a country s electorally elected government and a government in exile is also a revolutionary government or organization and it stands on the opposite side of an electorally elected government     A soldier's son Annette Lyster,1894     The Monthly Army List ,1888     General Gordon: soldier,
