Soil Responses To Climate Change:

Soil Responses to Climate Change Mark D.A. Rounsevell, Peter J. Loveland, 2013-06-29 Soils will play a central role in mediating the impact of climate change on natural and managed ecosystems. The book addresses the various responses of soil processes and properties to environmental change and highlights their contribution to the proper understanding of ecosystem behaviour. Topics include Soil hydrology, landscape evolution, salinisation, desertification, soil nitrogen dynamics, soil carbon, soil microbiology, soil erosion, crop modelling.

Soil Health and Climate Change Bhupinder Pal Singh, Annette L. Cowie, K. Yin Chan, 2011-07-24 Soil Health and Climate Change presents a comprehensive overview of the concept of soil health including the significance of key soil attributes and management of soil health in conventional and emerging land use systems in the context of climate change. Starting with a review of the physical, chemical and biological indicators of soil health and their significance for monitoring the impacts of climate change, this book then focuses on describing the role of soil structure, pH, organic matter, nitrogen, respiration and biota in sustaining the basic functions of soil ecosystems and their anticipated responses to climate change. Further topics include the management of cropping, pastoral and forestry systems and rehabilitated mine sites with a focus on mitigation of and adaptation to climate change impacts. Finally, the opportunities and potential risks of organic farming, biochar and bioenergy systems and their ability to sustain and even enhance soil health are discussed.

Impacts of Climate Change on Carbon and Nitrogen Cycles in Boreal Forest Ecosystems Peter Eliasson, 2007 Simulations of increased CO₂ also confirmed positive growth response in the short term. The response of soil carbon was similar however predicted to be less than the increase of biomass. Nitrogen availability and negative feedback mechanisms of the plant-soil system were critical to the results indicating that nitrogen progressively limited the growth response.

Climate Change Effects on Soils Claudia Holmes, 2015 Climate change has and will significantly affect soil properties. Biotic processes that consume atmospheric CO₂ and create organic carbon C that is either reprocessed to CO₂ or stored in soils are the subject of active current investigations with great concern over the influence of climate change. In addition, abiotic C cycling and its influence on the inorganic C pool in soils is a fundamental global process in which acidic atmospheric CO₂ participates in the weathering of carbonate and silicate minerals, ultimately delivering bicarbonate and Ca²⁺ or other cations that precipitate in the form of carbonates in soils or are transported to the rivers, lakes and oceans. Soil responses to climate change will be complex and there are many uncertainties and unresolved issues. The objective of this book is to initiate and further stimulate a discussion about some important and challenging aspects of climate change effects on soils such as accelerated weathering of soil minerals and resulting C and elemental fluxes in and out of soils, soil geoengineering methods used to increase C sequestration in soils, soil organic matter (SOM) protection, transformation and mineralization and SOM temperature sensitivity This book reports recent discoveries and identifies key research needs required to understand the effects of climate change on soils Global Climatic Change David Atkinson,1993 Climatic change and its implications climatic models changes in physical environmental conditions the potencial effects of climate change on wold food supply climate change in perspective vegetation responses to global climate changes of the past impact of climate change on soil processes and soil biological activity will increasing ozone pollution associated with global climate change altecrop tolerance to herbicides global change implications for crop protection
