R. Métraux, 2006 This collection of essays promises to make an important contribution to the field of Roman studies particularly by its concentration on monuments to that of Roman art history. The current high level of interest in problems of identity including studies of colonialism Romanization ethnicity social class gender and a host of related topics creates a vital intellectual context for the study of the art of provincials and the lower classes. The monuments themselves contribute a critical dimension to this discourse the more so because the textual evidence for the non elites of Roman society apart from inscriptions is relatively scarce Abstracts and Program Statements College Art Association of America. Paul, the Fool of Christ L. L. Welborn, 2005 Welborn argues that Paul's acceptance of the role of a fool and his evaluation of the message of the cross as foolishness are best understood against the background of the popular theatre and the fool's role in the mime. Welborn's investigation demonstrates that the term folly moria was generally understood as a designation of the attitude and behaviour of a particular social type the lower class buffoon. As a source of amusement these lower class types were widely represented on the stage in the vulgar and realistic comedy known as the mime. Paul's acceptance of the role of the fool mirrors the strategy of a number of intellectuals in the early Empire who exploited the paradoxical freedom that the role permitted for the utterance of a dangerous truth
