Danzer,Holt McDougal,2002-01 A Companion to Twentieth-Century American Drama David Krasner,2008-04-15 This Companion provides an original and authoritative survey of twentieth century American drama studies written by some of the best scholars and critics in the field Balances consideration of canonical material with discussion of works by previously marginalized playwrights Includes studies of leading dramatists such as Tennessee Williams Arthur Miller Eugene O'Neill and Gertrude Stein Allows readers to make new links between particular plays and playwrights Examines the movements that framed the century such as the Harlem Renaissance lesbian and gay drama and the solo performances of the 1980s and 1990s Situates American drama within larger discussions about American ideas and culture Climate Change and Variability Suzanne Simard,2010-08-17 Climate change is emerging as one of the most important issues of our time with the potential to cause profound cascading effects on ecosystems and society However these effects are poorly understood and our projections for climate change trends and effects have thus far proven to be inaccurate In this collection of 24 chapters we present a cross section of some of the most challenging issues related to oceans lakes forests and agricultural systems under a changing climate The authors present evidence for changes and variability in climatic and atmospheric conditions investigate some of the impacts that climate change is having on the Earth's ecological and social systems and provide novel ideas advances and applications for mitigation and adaptation of our socio ecological systems to climate change Difficult questions are asked What have been some of the impacts of climate change on our natural and managed ecosystems How do we manage for resilient socio ecological systems How do we predict the future What are relevant climatic change and management scenarios How can we shape management regimes to increase our adaptive capacity to climate change These themes are visited across broad spatial and temporal scales touch on important and relevant ecological patterns and processes and represent broad geographic regions from the tropics to temperate and boreal regions to the Arctic Textbooks and War Eugenia Roldán Vera,Eckhardt Fuchs,2018-10-04 This volume reflects on the role played by textbooks in the complex relationship between war and education from a historical and multinational perspective asking how textbook content and production can play a part in these processes. It has long been established that history textbooks play a key role in shaping the next generation's understanding of both past events and the concept of friend and foe. Considering both current and historical textbooks often through a bi-national comparative approach the editors and contributors investigate various important aspects of the relationships between textbooks and war including the role wars play in the creation of national identities whether the country is on the winning or losing side the effacement of international wars to highlight a country's exceptionalism or the obscuring of intra-national conflict through the ways in which a civil war is portrayed. This pioneering book will be of interest and value to students and scholars of textbooks educational media and the relationships between curricula and war.

History Textbooks and the Wars in Asia Gi-Wook Shin, Daniel C. Sneider, 2011-02-08 Over the past fifteen years Northeast Asia has witnessed growing intraregional exchanges and interactions especially in the realms of culture and economy. Still the region cannot escape from the burden of history. This book examines the formation of historical memory in four Northeast Asian societies China, Japan, South Korea and Taiwan and the United States focusing on the period from the beginning of the Sino-Japanese war in 1931 until the formal conclusion of the Pacific War with the San Francisco Peace Treaty of 1951. The contributors analyse the recent efforts of Korean, Japanese and Chinese scholars to write a common history of Northeast Asia and question the underlying motivations for their efforts and subsequent achievements. In doing so they contend that the greatest obstacle to reconciliation in Northeast Asia lies in the existence of divided and often conflicting historical memories. The book argues that a more fruitful approach lies in understanding how historical memory has evolved in each country and been incorporated into respective master narratives. Through uncovering the existence of different master narratives it is hoped citizens will develop a more self-critical, self-reflective approach to their own history and that such an introspective effort has the potential to lay the foundation for greater self and mutual understanding and eventual historical reconciliation in the region. This book will be essential reading for students and scholars of Asian history, Asian education and international relations in East Asia.
