Information Markets Robert William Hahn,Paul C. Tetlock,2006 Information markets have proven to be so remarkably accurate at predicting a wide range of events from presidential elections to Oscar winners that scholars are challenged to examine the potential for using this innovative tool in other areas This book brings together nine leading scholars to evaluate the applicability of information markets to the work of policymakers non profit organizations and the private sector The Builder ,1875 Experimentalist Governance Bernardo Rangoi,2023-08-09 What does non hierarchical governance mean Under what conditions are actors likely to engage in it Which trajectory best captures its long term evolution Through which mechanisms does it overcome gridlock To respond to these questions at the heart of regulatory governance Experimentalist Governance develops an analytical framework that draws on contemporary debates but seeks to overcome their limitations Notably it offers a definition of non hierarchical experimentalist governance that goes beyond institutional structures focusing attention on actors choices and strategies It shows that contrary to expectations functional and political pressures were more influential than distributions of legal power and bolstered one another Strong functional demands and political opposition influence actors capacity of using powers which de jure might be concentrated in their own hands Indeed actors can use non hierarchical governance to aid learning and mould political support Conversely they may override legal constraints and impose their views on others insofar as they are equipped with confidence and powerful coalitions beforehand This book also challenges conservative views that non hierarchical governance is doomed to wither away showing that on the contrary it is often resilient Finally it demonstrates that far from being alternatives positive shadow of hierarchy and negative penalty default mechanisms to avoid gridlock are frequently complementary By analysing five crucial domains electricity gas communications finance and pharmaceuticals in the European Union an examination is made of when how and why non hierarchical institutions affect policy processes and outcomes Combining temporal cross sectoral and within case comparisons with process tracing this book ultimately illustrates the conditions trajectories and mechanisms of non hierarchical governance
