Derek Jarman and Lyric Film Steven Dillon, 2004-04-01 Derek Jarman was the most important independent filmmaker in England during the 1980s Using emblems and symbols in associative contexts rather than conventional cause and effect narrative he created films noteworthy for their lyricism and poetic feeling and for their exploration of the gay experience His style of filmmaking also links Jarman with other prominent directors of lyric film including Pier Paolo Pasolini Andrei Tarkovsky Jean Cocteau and Jean Genet This pathfinding book places Derek Jarman in the tradition of lyric film and offers incisive readings of all eleven of his feature length films from Sebastiane to Blue Steven Dillon looks at Jarman and other directors working in a similar vein to establish how lyric films are composed through the use of visual imagery and actual poetry He then traces Jarman's use of imagery notably mirrors and the sea in his films and discusses in detail the relationship between cinematic representations and sexual identity This insightful reading of Jarman's work helps us better understand how films such as The Last of England and The Garden can be said to cohere and mean without being reduced to clear messages. Above all, Dillon's book reveals how truly beautiful and brilliant Jarman's movies are.

Derek Jarman Michael O'Pray, 1996 No Marketing Blurb Kicking The Pricks Derek Jarman, 2018-05-03 A fascinating journal written after the creation of Derek Jarman's The Last of England covering the making of the film itself and the origins of its deeply autobiographical content. In 1986, Derek Jarman started filming The Last of England, one of his most original and innovative films. It is also his most personal work with the strongest autobiographical content. Shortly after filming began, Derek Jarman started work on this book, which contains diary entries, interviews, and notes from the script. Jarman writes of his extraordinary childhood and his kleptomaniac father, the process by which he came to terms with his sexuality, his early work as painter and designer, and finally his debut as a film director. Throughout, however, the reader will follow Jarman at his most fervent as he writes of the corruption of the cinema industry, of the moral and personal consequences of the AIDS virus, and of the evils of Thatcher's Britain.
