Smoothing Methods In Statistics:

Smoothing Methods in Statistics Jeffrey S. Simonoff, 2012-12-06 The existence of high speed inexpensive computing has made it easy to look at data in ways that were once impossible Where once a data analyst was forced to make restrictive assumptions before beginning the power of the computer now allows great freedom in deciding where an analysis should go One area that has benefited greatly from this new freedom is that of non parametric density distribution and regression function estimation or what are generally called smoothing methods Most people are familiar with some smoothing methods such as the histogram but are unlikely to know about more recent developments that could be useful to them If a group of experts on statistical smoothing methods are put in a room two things are likely to happen First they will agree that data analysts seriously underappreciate smoothing methods Smoothing methods use computing power to give analysts the ability to highlight unusual structure very effectively by taking advantage of people's abilities to draw conclusions from well designed graphics Data analysts should take advantage of this they will argue

Applied Smoothing Techniques for Data Analysis Adrian W. Bowman, Adelchi Azzalini, 1997-08-14 The book describes the use of smoothing techniques in statistics including both density estimation and nonparametric regression Considerable advances in research in this area have been made in recent years The aim of this text is to describe a variety of ways in which these methods can be applied to practical problems in statistics The role of smoothing techniques in exploring data graphically is emphasised but the use of nonparametric curves in drawing conclusions from data as an extension of more standard parametric models is also a major focus of the book Examples are drawn from a wide range of applications The book is intended for those who seek an introduction to the area with an emphasis on applications rather than on detailed theory It is therefore expected that the book will benefit those attending courses at an advanced undergraduate or postgraduate level as well as researchers both from statistics and from other disciplines who wish to learn about and apply these techniques in practical data analysis The text makes extensive reference to S Plus as a computing environment in which examples can be explored S Plus functions and example scripts are provided to implement many of the techniques described These parts are however clearly separate from the main body of text and can therefore easily be skipped by readers not interested in S Plus

Smoothing Techniques Wolfgang Härdle, 2012-12-06 The author has attempted to present a book that provides a non technical introduction into the area of non parametric density and regression function estimation The application of these methods is discussed in terms of the S computing environment Smoothing in high dimensions faces the problem of data sparseness A principal feature of smoothing the averaging of data points in a prescribed neighborhood is not really practicable in dimensions greater than three if we have just one hundred data points Additive models provide a way out of this dilemma but for their interactiveness and recursiveness they require highly effective algorithms For this purpose the method of WARPing Weighted Averaging using Rounded Points is described in great detail

Spatial Analysis And GIS S Fotheringham, Peter Rogerson, 2013-04-08 Geographic information systems represent an exciting and rapidly expanding technology via which spatial data may be captured stored retrieved displayed manipulated and analysed Applications of this technology include detailed inventories of land use parcels Spatial patterns of disease geodemographics environmental management and macroscale inventories of global resources The impetus for this book is the relative lack of research into the integration of spatial analysis and GIS and the potential benefits in developing such an integration From a GIS perspective there is an increasing demand for systems that do something other than display and organize data From a spatial analytical perspective there are advantages to linking statistical methods and mathematical models to the database and display capabilities of a GIS Although the GIS may not be absolutely necessary for spatial analysis it can facilitate such an analysis and moreover provide insights that might otherwise have been missed The contributions to the book tell us where we are and where we ought to be going It suggests that the integration of spatial analysis and GIS will stimulate interest in quantitative spatial science particularly exploratory and visual types of analysis and represents a unique statement of the state of the art issues in integration and interface
