Henry Michael Gott

Stendhal Flaubert:

Flaubert Writing Michal Peled Ginsburg, 1986 The author's starting point for this study was the conviction that Flaubert's difficulty in sustaining a narrative so evident in his early works was not entirely overcome even in the works of his maturity. Flaubert seems to have a problem in generating his text and keeping it going. What is the difficulty in generating a text? How is it circumvented? And most important how does this problem and the strategies used to overcome it shape the narrative?

The Hidden Reader Victor Brombert, 1988 Victor Brombert is an unrivaled interpreter of French literature and the writers he considers in this latest book are ones with whom he has a long acquaintance. These essays eleven of them appearing in English for the first time and some totally new give us an acute analysis of the major figures of the nineteenth century and a splendid lesson in criticism. Brombert shows how a text works its structure and narrative devices and the symbolic function of characters episodes words and he highlights the distinctive postures and styles of each writer. He gives us a sense of the hidden inner text as well as the techniques writers have devised to lead their readers to the discovery of what is hidden. With wonderful subtlety he unravels the reader's participatory response whether it be Hugo reading Shakespeare, Sartre reading Hugo, Stendhal reading Rousseau, T S Eliot misreading Baudelaire or Baudelaire, Balzac and Flaubert reading their own sensibilities. This book is a sterling example of the finest kind of literary criticism wise, intelligent, responsive, sympathetic that reveals central aspects of the creative process and returns the reader joyfully to the texts themselves.

The Unheroic Hero in the Novels of Stendhal, Balzac, and Flaubert Raymond Dorner, 1957

The Rise of the French Novel Martin Turnell, 1978 Martin Turnell's The Rise of the French Novel is a successor to his highly praised earlier books The Novel in France 1951 and The Art of French Fiction 1959. His aim now however is somewhat different as can be seen from the title. It is well known that the reputations of many writers novelists especially diminish for a period following their deaths. Although in the eighteenth century Marivaux, Crillon, fils and Rousseau all enjoyed a great deal of popularity during their lifetimes it is only recently that they have been subject to truly searching studies. Yet they remain little read in English speaking countries. Turnell emphasizes that in spite of the hostility of French critics and the fact that the novel did not reach its supremacy even in France until the nineteenth century the beginning of its great rise was indeed with such writers as these. Their strong influence led such nineteenth century novelists as Stendhal and Flaubert to all kinds of changes related to style the enormous increase in the range of subject matter and the marked development of language. Flaubert is the most striking example. It was pointed out some time ago by Eisenstein that Madame Bovary anticipates cinematic technique. One of Turnell's most interesting chapters explores the connections between the novel and film in general and Madame Bovary in particular. In our own time two of the most popular French novelists in both the United States and England are Alain Fournier and Radiguet. They are given enthusiastic appreciations in Turnell's thoughtful book.
