Stevenson Jane:

Anna Maria van Schurman, 'The Star of Utrecht' Anne R. Larsen, 2016-04-14 Dutch Golden Age scholar Anna Maria van Schurman was widely regarded throughout the seventeenth century as the most learned woman of her age. She was The Star of Utrecht, The Dutch Minerva, The Tenth Muse, a miracle of her sex, the incomparable Virgin and the oracle of Utrecht. As the first woman ever to attend a university, she was also the first to advocate boldly that women should be admitted into universities. A brilliant linguist, she mastered some fifteen languages. She was the first Dutch woman to seek publication of her correspondence. Her letters in several languages, Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and French, to the intellectual men and women of her time, reveal the breadth of her interests in theology, philosophy, medicine, literature, numismatics, painting, sculpture, embroidery, and instrumental music. This study addresses Van Schurman's transformative contribution to the seventeenth-century debate on women's education. It analyses first her educational philosophy and second the transnational reception of her writings on women's education, particularly in France. Anne Larsen explores how, in advocating advanced learning for women, Van Schurman challenged the educational establishment of her day to allow women to study all the arts and the sciences. Her letters offer fascinating insights into the challenges that scholarly women faced in the early modern period when they sought to define themselves as intellectuals, writers, and thoughtful contributors to the social good. Kentucky Pioneer and Court Records, 1981. This invaluable compilation includes abstracts of early wills, deeds, and marriages from courthouses and records of old Bibles, churches, graveyards, and cemeteries from the following Kentucky counties: Anderson, Bourbon, Boyle, Clark, Estill, Fayette, Garrard, Harrison, Jessamine, Lincoln, Madison, Mercer, Montgomery, Nicholas, and Woodford. An extensive surname index contains about 3,750 entries. Amazon Learning and Literacy in Female Hands, 1520-1698 Elizabeth Mazzola, 2016-04-22. Focusing on the unusual learning and schooling of women in early modern England, this study explores how and why women wrote the myriad forms their alphabets could assume and the shape which vernacular literacy acquired in their hands. Elizabeth Mazzola argues that early modern women's writings often challenged the lessons of their male teachers, since they were designed to conceal rather than reveal women's learning and schooling. Employed by early modern women with great learning and much art, such difficult or resistant literacy organized households and administrative offices alike and transformed the broader history of literacy in the West. Chapters treat writers like Jane Sharp, Anne Southwell, Jane Seager, Martha Moulsworth, Elizabeth Tudor, and Katherine Parr alongside images of women writers presented by Shakespeare and Sidney. Managing women's literacy also concerned early modern statesmen and secretaries writing masters and grammarians, and Mazzola analyzes how both the emerging vernacular and a developing bureaucratic state were informed by these contests over women's hands. Early Medieval Ireland 400-1200 Daibhi O Croinin, 2016-10-04. This impressive survey covers the early history of Ireland from the coming of Christianity to the Norman settlement. Within a broad political framework, it explores the nature of Irish society, the spiritual and secular roles of the Church and the extraordinary flowering of Irish culture in the period Other major themes are Ireland's relations with Britain and continental Europe the beginnings of Irish feudalism and the impact of the Viking and Norman invaders The expanded second edition has been fully updated to take into account the most recent research in the history of Ireland in the early middle ages including Ireland's relations with the Later Roman Empire advances and discoveries in archaeology and Church Reform in the 11th and 12th centuries A new opening chapter on early Irish primary sources introduces students to the key written sources that inform our picture of early medieval Ireland including annals genealogies and laws The social political religious legal and institutional background provides the context against which D ibh Cr in n describes Ireland's transformation from a tribal society to a feudal state It is essential reading for student and specialist alike (The) Holbeach Parish Register of Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials, A.
