Richard Ellis Roberts

Stella Benson:

Stella Benson Joy Grant, 1987 British Women Writers 1914-1945 Catherine Clay, 2017-09-20 Catherine Clay's persuasively argued and rigorously documented study examines women's friendships during the period between the two world wars. Building on extensive new archival research, the book's organizing principle is a series of literary historical case studies that explore the practices, meanings, and effects of friendship within a network of British women writers who were all loosely connected to the feminist weekly periodical Time and Tide. Clay considers the letters and diaries as well as fiction, poetry, autobiographies, and journalistic writings of authors such as Vera Brittain, Winifred Holtby, Storm Jameson, Naomi Mitchison, and Stella Benson to examine women's friendships in relation to two key contexts: the rise of the professional woman writer under the shadow of literary modernism and historic shifts in the cultural recognition of lesbianism crystallized by The Well of Loneliness trial in 1928. While Clay's study presents substantial evidence to support the crucial role close and enduring friendships played in women's professional achievements, it also boldly addresses the limitations and denials of these relationships. Producing biographies of friendship untold in existing author studies, her book also challenges dominant accounts of women's friendships and advances new ways for thinking about women's friendship in contemporary debates.

Some Letters of Stella Benson, 1928-1933 Stella Benson, 1978 Modern Women in China and Japan Katrina Gulliver, 2012-02-21 At the dawn of the 1930s, a new empowered and liberated image of the female was taking root in popular culture in the West. This modern woman archetype was also penetrating into Eastern cultures, however challenging the Chinese and Japanese historical norm of the woman as homemaker, servant, or geisha. Through a focus on the writings of the Western women who engaged with the Far East and the Eastern writers and personalities who reacted to this new global gender communication by forming their own separate identities, Katrina Gulliver reveals the complex redefining of the self taking place in a crucial time of political and economic upheaval. Including an analysis of the work of Nobel Prize laureate Pearl S. Buck, The Modern Woman in China and Japan is an important contribution to gender studies and will appeal to historians and scholars of China and East Asia as well as to those studying Asian and American literature. A Woman in History Maxine Berg, 1996-03-29 A compelling 1996 intellectual biography of Eileen Power, a major British historian who once ranked alongside Tawney, Trevelyan, and Toynbee. Stella Benson Joy Grant, 1987 Stella Benson, 1933

Remapping the Home Front Debra Rae Cohen, 2002 An examination of how wartime rhetoric in World War I influenced the home front fiction of four British women writers: Violet Hunt, Rose Macaulay, Stella Benson, and Rebecca West.
