The Mathematical Analysis Of Logic:

The Mathematical Analysis of Logic George Boole,1847      The Mathematical Analysis Of Logic George Boole, The Mathematical Analysis of Logic is a foundational 19th century work by George Boole first published in 1847 It s one of the earliest attempts to apply mathematical methods to logic laying the groundwork for what would later become symbolic logic Boolean algebra and ultimately much of modern computer science and digital logic design Equations of Logic Logical relations can be written as equations e g  $xy \neq 0$   $xy = 0$  means A and B are mutually exclusive Symbolic Manipulation Logical conclusions can be deduced by manipulating symbols just as in algebra Syllogisms in Algebraic Form Boole translated traditional syllogisms e g All A are B into algebraic equations for systematic analysis Partial Use of Binary Principles He hinted that logical symbols could take only two values true false though the binary nature was made clearer in his 1854 book

The Mathematical Analysis of Logic George Boole,2014-12-11 The Theory of Symbolical Algebra are aware that the validity of the processes of analysis does not depend upon the interpretation of the symbols which are employed but solely upon the laws of their combination Every system of interpretation which does not affect the truth of the relations supposed is equally admissible and it is thus that the same process may under one scheme of interpretation represent the solution of a question on the properties of numbers under another that of a geometrical problem and under a third that of a problem of dynamics or optics This principle is indeed of fundamental importance and it may with safety be affirmed that the recent advances of pure analysis have been much assisted by the influence which it has exerted in directing the current of investigation But the full recognition of the consequences of this important doctrine has been in some measure retarded by accidental circumstances It has happened in every known form of analysis that the elements to be determined have been conceived as measurable by comparison with some fixed standard The predominant idea has been that of magnitude or more strictly of numerical ratio The expression of magnitude or of operations upon magnitude has been the express object for which the symbols of Analysis have been invented and for which their laws have been investigated Thus the abstractions of the modern Analysis not less than the ostensive diagrams of the ancient Geometry have encouraged the notion that Mathematics are essentially as well as actually the Science of Magnitude The consideration of that view which has already been stated as embodying the true principle of the Algebra of Symbols would however lead us to infer that this conclusion is by no means necessary If every existing interpretation is shewn to involve the idea of magnitude it is only by induction that we can assert that no other interpretation is possible And it may be doubted whether our experience is sufficient to render such an induction legitimate The history of pure Analysis is it may be said too recent to permit us to set limits to the extent of its applications Should we grant to the inference a high degree of probability we might still and with reason maintain the sufficiency of the definition to which the principle already stated would lead us We might justly assign it as the definitive character of a true Calculus that it is a method resting upon the employment of Symbols whose laws of combination are known and general and whose results admit of a consistent interpretation That to the existing forms of Analysis a quantitative interpretation is assigned is the result of the circumstances by which those forms were determined and is not to be construed into a universal condition of Analysis It is upon the foundation of this general principle that I purpose to establish the Calculus of Logic and that I claim for it a place among the acknowledged forms of Mathematical Analysis regardless that in its object and in its instruments it must at present stand alone That which renders Logic possible is the existence in our minds of general notions our ability to conceive of a class and to designate its individual members by a common name The theory of Logic is thus intimately connected with that of Language A successful attempt to Express logical propositions by symbols the laws of whose combinations should be founded upon the laws of the mental processes which they represent would so far be a step toward a philosophical language

G. Binmore,1981-03-26 In elementary introductions to mathematical analysis the treatment of the logical and algebraic foundations of the subject is necessarily rather skeletal This book attempts to flesh out the bones of such treatment by providing an informal but systematic account of the foundations of mathematical analysis written at an elementary level This book is entirely self contained but as indicated above it will be of most use to university or college students who are taking or who have taken an introductory course in analysis Such a course will not automatically cover all the material dealt with in this book and so particular care has been taken to present the material in a manner which makes it suitable for self study In a particular there are a large number of examples and exercises and where necessary hints to the solutions are provided This style of presentation of course will also make the book useful for those studying the subject independently of taught course An Investigation of the Laws of Thought George Boole,2015-11-03 Mathematics Pure Mathematics Logic Philosophy An Investigation of the Laws of Thought On which are founded the mathematical theories of logic and probabilities By George Boole The Laws of Thought more precisely An Investigation of the Laws of Thought on Which are Founded the Mathematical Theories of Logic and Probabilities was an influential 19th century book by George Boole the second of his two monographs on algebraic logic It was published in 1854 Boole was Professor of Mathematics of then Queen s College Cork in Ireland The following work is not a republication of a former treatise by the Author entitled The Mathematical Analysis of Logic Its earlier portion is indeed devoted to the same object and it begins by establishing the same system of fundamental laws but its methods are more general and its range of applications far wider It exhibits the results matured by some years of study and reflection of a principle of investigation relating to the intellectual operations the previous exposition of which was written within a few weeks after its idea had been conceived That portion of this work which relates to Logic presupposes in its reader a knowledge of the most important terms of the science as usually treated and of its general object On these points there is no better guide than Archbishop Whately s Elements of Logic or Mr

Thomson's Outlines of the Laws of Thought To the former of these treatises the present revival of attention to this class of studies seems in a great measure due Some acquaintance with the principles of Algebra is also requisite but it is not necessary that this application should have been carried beyond the solution of simple equations For the study of those chapters which relate to the theory of probabilities a somewhat larger knowledge of Algebra is required and especially of the doctrine of Elimination and of the solution of Equations containing more than one unknown quantity

Grattan-Guinness,Gerard Bornet,2012-10-29 George Boole 1815 1864 is well known to mathematicians for his research and textbooks on the calculus but his name has spread world wide for his innovations in symbolic logic and the development and applications made since his day The utility of Boolean algebra in computing has greatly increased curiosity in the nature and extent of his achievements His work is most accessible in his two books on logic A mathematical analysis of logic 1947 and An investigation of the laws of thought 1954 But at various times he wrote manuscript essays especially after the publication of the second book several were intended for a non technical work The Philosophy of logic which he was not able to complete This volume contains an edited selection which not only relates them to Boole's publications and the historical context of his time but also describes their strange history of family followers and scholars have tried to confect an edition The book will appeal to logicians mathematicians and philosophers and those interested in the histories of the corresponding subjects and also students of the early Victorian Britain in which they were written
