that it would be both interesting and profitable for me to know Luckily I made no such mistake this evening I rose and looked out and though I was far from realizing it at the time took by so doing my first step in a course of inquiry which has ended But it is too soon to speak of the end Rather let me tell you what I saw when I parted the curtains of my window in Gramercy Park on the night of September 17 1895 Not much at first glance only a common hack drawn up at the neighboring curb stone The lamp which is supposed to light our part of the block is some rods away on the opposite side of the street so that I obtained but a shadowy glimpse of a young man and woman standing below me on the pavement I could see however that the woman and not the man was putting money into the driver s hand The next moment they were on the stoop of this long closed house and the coach rolled off It was dark as I have said and I did not recognize the young people at least their figures were not familiar to me but when in another instant I heard the click of a night key and saw them after a rather tedious fumbling at the lock disappear from the stoop I took it for granted that the gentleman was Mr Van Burnam s eldest son Franklin and the lady some relative of the family though why this its most punctilious member should bring a guest at so late an hour into a house devoid of everything necessary to make the least exacting visitor comfortable was a mystery that I retired to bed to meditate upon

That Affair Next Door Anna Katharine Green, 2018-03-29 First published in 1897 That Affair Next Door is another fascinating study in human motivations intertwined with bits and pieces of circumstantial evidence that at first make very little sense True to Green s style she calls up and explains each motivation each piece of evidence with mathematical precision until the mystery unravels and the perpetrator is punished in a most fitting fashion We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience
