The 20th Century A Moving Visual History:

The Past Is a Moving Picture Janna Jones, 2012-07-01 Almost all remnants of culture past and present degrade over time whether sculpture or scrolls painting or papyrus books or clay tablets Perhaps no major cultural record dissolves more rapidly than film arguably the predominant medium of the twentieth century Given the fragility of early nitrate film much has already been lost The fragments that remain whether complete prints of theatrical releases or scraps of everyday life captured by Thomas Edison only hint at what has disappeared More recently archives have been flooded with so much material that they lack the funds to properly preserve it all Both situations raise questions about how film archives shape our understanding of history and culture Janna Jones provides a stunning tour de force analysis of the major assumptions and paradigmatic shifts about history cinema and the moving image archive one that we ignore at our peril in the midst of the overwhelming rush toward digitization No student of film twentieth century history or archiving and preservation can afford to miss The Past Is a Moving Picture     Moving Image Technology Leo Douglas Graham Enticknap, 2005 The author explains scientific technical and engineering concepts clearly and in a way that can be understood by non scientists He integrates a discussion of traditional film based technologies with the impact of emerging new media technologies such as digital video e cinema and the Internet     Seeing Things Amanda Shubert, 2025-11-15 A cultural history of nineteenth century media imaginaries Seeing Things tells the story of how Victorians experienced the virtual images created by modern optical technologies magic lanterns stereoscopes phenakistoscopes museum displays and illusionistic stage magic Amanda Shubert argues that interactions with these devices gave rise to a new virtual aesthetics an understanding of visual and perceptual encounters with things that are not really there The popularization of Victorian optical media redefined visuality as a rational mode of spectatorship that taught audiences to distinguish illusion from reality As an aesthetic expression of a civilizational ideal that defined the capacity to see but not believe to be entertained without being deceived it became a sign of western supremacy By tracing the development of virtual aesthetics through nineteenth century writings from the novels of George Eliot and Charles Dickens to popular science writing and imperial travelogues Seeing Things recovers a formative period of technological and literary innovation to explain how optical media not only anticipated cinema but became a paradigmatic media aesthetic of western modernity     Art, the Sublime, and Movement Amanda du Preez, 2022-01-31 This book is a critical interdisciplinary approach to the study of contemporary visual culture and image studies exploring ideas about space and place and ultimately contributing to the debates about being human in the digital age The upward and downward pull seem in a constant contest for humanity's attention Both forces are powerful in the effects and affects they invoke When tracing this iconological history Amanda du Preez starts in the early nineteenth century moving into the twentieth century and then spanning the whole century up to contemporary twenty first century screen culture and space travels Du Preez parses the intersecting pathways between Heaven and Earth up and down flying and falling through the concept of being spaced out The idea of being spaced out is applied as a metaphor to trace the visual history of sublime encounters that displace Earth gravity locality belonging home real life and embodiment The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history visual culture media and cultural studies phenomenology digital culture mobility studies and urban studies
