Parker,2001-09-27 The Second World War is a compact but comprehensive and absorbing history of the war It examines the causes of the war how it was won and lost and its far reaching consequences for humanity In tracing the key events of both the European and the Far Eastern wars R A C Parker outlines clearly the strategies of the participants the economies and societies that underlay them and the strengths and weaknesses of their fighting forces He describes the decisive battles and analyses the reasons for their outcome paying close attention to special features of the war mobile warfare forced migration the Holocaust strategic and nuclear bombing Unlike many other histories of the war this book places British and European involvement squarely in an international perspective and the author never shies away from raising fundamental questions British Bombing Policy During the Second World War Hubert Raymond Allen ,2017-01-20 This book is unusual inasmuch as the author is not worried about being controversial He wrote this work in a frank manner using his personal experience In his preface he says The experience of twenty six years commissioned service in the Royal Air Force coupled with an enquiring mind led me to write this book The book is not about the aircrews of Bomber Command Operations are brushed over operational fatigue hardly men tioned Instead the book focuses on the policy and its wisdom He does not raise the cry morality and rightly points out that the activities indulged in by Hitler and Stalin were not pleasant What he does do with much relevant observation is to point out what might have been achieved if British targeting policies had been thought through with greater intelligence At the end in a helpful appendix he quotes the post war interrogation of Albert Speer

QUESTION Which at various periods of the war caused most concern British or American heavy bomber attacks day or night attacks and why ANSWER The American attacks which followed a definite system of assault on industrial targets were by far the most dangerous It was in fact these attacks which caused the breakdown of the German armaments industry The night attacks did not succeed in breaking the will to work of the civilian population
