Summary:

This article tries to describes about two theories of nation building. These two theories are nation-state and state-nation. In nation –state theory nation is determined on the basis of races, ethnicity, language, religion, cultural identity, geographical identity. On the other hand, in state-nation theory nation is taken as state with definite geographical boundary with geopolitical legitimacy that is free, independent, sovereign and where mutual coordination of diverse species, castes, languages, cultures, sects, communities, geographical areas collective determine the “nationality”. The state nation theory of nation building is being more stato-dynamic in recent year.

Key Words: State-Nation, Nation-State, Nation Buildings, Cultural Identity

Nation Building:

The nation building is the process of defining the nation and unite people under one country to share a common independency, sovereignty, constitution, a national public education system, an integrated national economy, shared symbols and values, as equals among the people. Nation-building is the process whereby a society of people with diverse origins, histories, languages, cultures and religions come together within the boundaries of a sovereign state with a unified constitutional and legal dispensation, a national public education system, an integrated national economy, shared symbols and values, as equals, to work towards eradicating the divisions and injustices of the past; to foster unity; and promote a countrywide conscious sense of being proudly united, committed to the country and open to the continent and the world.

State And Nation Building:

State and Nation Building Centre for the Study of Developing Societies, 1976 The State and Nation-Building Processes in Kenya since Independence Waiyego Mwangi, Omondi Opongo, 2019-06-25

Kenya's nationalism during the colonial period was marked by two main characteristics that feature in this book. First, the struggle for independence that was mainly characterized by the claim for land that had been taken away by the colonizers. Second, was the struggle for autonomy and self-determination mainly through political resistance. The authors in this book analyse historical trajectories of Kenya's nationalism trends while highlighting the role of political leaders large as well as small ethnic groups perennial conflicts community as well as religious leaders among others. The discussions demonstrate that quest for a national identity that is inclusive at all levels whether politically economically religiously and ethnically has marked Kenya's struggle for nationalism sometimes leading to violence especially during election periods national unity through political coalitions and reconciliation as well as institutional reforms. In conclusion the authors demonstrate that while Kenya is gradually advancing towards national cohesion there are still many challenges yet to be surmounted.

State and Nation-Building in Pakistan Roger D. Long, Gurharpal Singh, Yunas Samad, Ian Talbot, 2015-10-08

Religion violence and ethnicity are all intertwined in the history of Pakistan. The entrenchment of landed interests operationalized through violence ethnic identity and power through successive regimes has created a system of authoritarian clientalism. This book offers comparative historicist and multidisciplinary views on the role of identity politics in the development of Pakistan. Bringing together perspectives on the dynamics of state building the book provides insights into contemporary processes of national contestation which are crucially affected by their treatment in the world media and by the reactions they elicit within an increasingly globalised polity. It investigates the resilience of landed elites to political and social change and in the years after partition looks at the impact on land holdings of population transfer. It goes on to discuss religious identities and their role in both the construction of national identity and in the development of sectarianism. The book highlights how ethnicity and identity politics are an enduring marker in Pakistani politics and why they are increasingly powerful and influential. An insightful collection on a range of perspectives on the dynamics of identity politics and the nation state this book on Pakistan will be a useful contribution to South Asian Politics South Asian History and Islamic Studies.

Media and Nation Building John Postill, 2006

With the end of the Cold War and the proliferation of civil wars and regime changes the question of nation building has acquired great practical and theoretical urgency. From Eastern Europe to East Timor Afghanistan and recently Iraq the United States and its allies have often been accused of shirking their nation building responsibilities as their attention and that of the media turned to yet another regional crisis. While much has been written about the growing influence of television and the Internet on modern warfare little is known about the relationship between media and nation building. This book explores for the first time this relationship by means of a paradigmatic case of successful nation building Malaysia. Based on extended fieldwork and historical research the author follows the diffusion adoption and social uses of media among the Iban of Sarawak in Malaysian Borneo and demonstrates the wide ranging process of nation building that has accompanied the Iban adoption of radio clocks print media and television In less than four decades Iban longhouses villages under one roof have become media organizations shaped by the official ideology of Malaysia a country hastily formed in 1963 by conjoining four disparate territories

Identity and Nation Building in Everyday Post-Socialist Life Abel Polese,Jeremy Morris,Emilia Pawłusz,Oleksandra Seliverstova,2017-07-31 This book explores the function of the everyday in the formation consolidation and performance of national sub national and local identities in the former socialist region Based on extensive original research including fieldwork the book demonstrates how the study of everyday and mundane practices is a meaningful and useful way of understanding the socio political processes of identity formation both at the top and bottom level of a state The book covers a wide range of countries including the Baltic States Ukraine Russia the Caucasus and Central Asia and considers everyday banal practices including those related to consumption kinship embodiment mobility music and the use of objects and artifacts Overall the book draws on and contributes to theory and shows how the process of nation building is not just undertaken by formal actors such as the state its institutions and political elites

Religion, Politics and Nation-Building in Post-Communist Countries Greg Simons,David Westerlund,2016-03-03 The increasing significance and visibility of relationships between religion and public arenas and institutions following the fall of communism in Europe provide the core focus of this fascinating book Leading international scholars consider the religious and political role of Christian Orthodoxy in the Russian Federation Romania Georgia and Ukraine alongside the revival of old indigenous religions often referred to as shamanistic and look at how despite Islam s long history and many adherents in the south Islamophobic attitudes have increasingly been added to traditional anti Semitic anti Western or anti liberal elements of Russian nationalism Contrasts between the church s position in the post communist nation building process of secular Estonia with its role in predominantly Catholic Poland are also explored Religion Politics and Nation Building in Post Communist Countries gives a broad overview of the political importance of religion in the Post Soviet space but its interest and relevance extends far beyond the geographical focus providing examples of the challenges in the spheres of public religious and social policy for all transitional countries

Ukraine Taras Kuzio,2016-01-31 Ukraine State and Nation Building explores the transformation of Soviet Ukraine into an independent state and examines the new elites and their role in the state building process as well as other attributes of the modern nation state such as borders symbols myths and national histories Extensive primary sources and interviews with leading members of Ukrainian elites show that state building is an integral part of the transition process and cannot be divorced from democratization and the establishment of a market economy
