Stateville The Penitentiary In Mass Society:

Stateville James B. Jacobs, 1977-01-01 Stateville penitentiary in Illinois has housed some of Chicago's most infamous criminals and was proclaimed to be the world's toughest prison by Joseph Ragen, Stateville's powerful warden from 1936 to 1961. It shares with Attica, San Quentin, and Jackson the notoriety of being one of the maximum security prisons that has shaped the public's conception of imprisonment. In Stateville, James B. Jacobs, a sociologist and legal scholar, presents the first historical examination of a total prison organization: administrators, guards, prisoners, and special interest groups. Jacobs applies Edward Shils's interpretation of the dynamics of mass society in order to explain the dramatic events of the past quarter century that have permanently altered Stateville's structure. With the extension of civil rights to previously marginal groups such as racial minorities, the poor, and ultimately the incarcerated, prisons have moved from society's periphery toward its center. Accordingly, Stateville's control mechanisms became less authoritarian and more legalistic and bureaucratic. As prisoners' rights increased, the prerogatives of the staff were sharply curtailed. By the early 1970s, the administration proved incapable of dealing with politicized gangs, proliferating interest groups, unionized guards, and interventionist courts. In addition to extensive archival research, Jacobs spent many months freely interacting with the prisoners, guards, and administrators at Stateville. His lucid presentation of Stateville's troubled history will provide fascinating reading for a wide audience of concerned readers; an impressive study of a complex social system. Isidore Silver Library Journal Prison

Officers and Their World Kelsey Kauffman, 1988 The 1970s were tumultuous years in American prisons, beginning with the bloody uprising at Attica and ending with the even bloodier one at New Mexico State. The Massachusetts prison system was one of the most seriously afflicted. Murders, suicides, riots, strikes, and mass escapes were only the most obvious manifestations of a system in turmoil. Crime and Society Robert Frank Meier, 1989 Social Bases of Power in a Maximum-security Prison Stan Stojkovic, 1984 Impossible Jobs in Public Management Erwin C. Hargrove, John C. Glidewell, 1990 If you think your job is hopelessly difficult, you may be right. Particularly if your job is public administration. Those who study or practice public management know full well the difficulties faced by administrators of complex bureaucratic systems. What they don't know is why some jobs in the public sector are harder than others and how good managers cope with those jobs. Drawing on leadership theory and social psychology, Erwin Hargrove and John Glidewell provide the first systematic analysis of the factors that determine the inherent difficulty of public management jobs and of the coping strategies employed by successful managers. To test their argument, Hargrove and Glidewell focus on those jobs fraught with extreme difficulties: impossible jobs. What differentiates impossible from possible jobs are: 1) the publicly perceived legitimacy of the commissioner's clientele; 2) the intensity of the conflict among the agency's constituencies; 3) the public's confidence in the authority of the commissioner's profession; and 4) the strength of the agency's myth or long-term idealistic goal. Hargrove and Glidewell flesh out their analysis with six case studies that focus on the roles played by leaders of specific agencies. Each essay summarizes the institutional strengths and weaknesses specifies what makes the job impossible and then compares the skills and strategies that incumbents have employed in coping with such jobs Readers will come away with a thorough understanding of the conflicting social psychological and political forces that act on commissioners in impossible jobs Sociology and Social Research ,1984 Includes the section Book notes International Encyclopedia of the Social & Behavioral Sciences Neil J. Smelser,Paul B. Baltes,2001 The largest work ever published in the social and behavioural sciences It contains 4000 signed articles 15 million words of text 90 000 bibliographic references and 150 biographical entries Crime and Delinquency ,1992 Choice ,1977 Imprisonment Roger Matthews,1999 The International library of Criminology Criminal Justice and Penology is an important publishing initiative that brings together the most significant contemporary published journal essays in current criminology criminal justice and penology Criminal Justice George F. Cole,1993 The selections in George Cole s new edition offer a provocative introduction to the criminal justice system as it has developed and how it exists today Logically divided into parts which fit the criminal justice system orientation of many courses the book includes twenty seven classic and contemporary articles that promote understanding of important issues in the field and encourage readers to think critically about the links between politics law and the administration of criminal justice Twelve new articles reflect new theoretical perspectives interdisciplinary studies and the recent expansion of research in criminal justice Readers will explore everything from crime policies which do or do not work to the latest hot topics Theory and Methods in Criminal Justice History Eric H. Monkkonen,1992 This text analyzes the theories and methodological problems inherent in the study of crime and justice in American history The contributors assess the efficiency of justice the relationship between war and crime feminism and cultural influences Prison Violence in America Michael Braswell,Reid H. Montgomery,Lucien X. Lombardo,1994 Topics covered include interpersonal violence sexual violence staff violence rape

Race Relations in Prisons Elaine Genders,Elaine Player,1989 A detailed research project at the request of the Home Office is the basis for this study focusing on three institutions the inmates and staff The history of race relations policy attitudes and racial discrimination are discussed and future improvements in prison systems are suggested Youth Crime and Juvenile Justice: Juvenile corrections Barry Goldson,John Muncie,2009 This three volume set of original readings is designed to reveal how and why children and young people have been repeatedly the subject of adult concern censure and intervention It conceptualises notions of childhood youth and adolescence whilst also tracing the complex history of adult intervention and juvenile justice This collection is particularly timely not only because of persistent concerns over out of control youth but also because of an apparent hardening of adult reactions in many jurisdictions Youth justice Nebraska History Addison Erwin Sheldon,James Lee Sellers,James C. Olson,2015 The U.S. Federal Prison System Mary Bosworth,2002 Despite the fact that 160 000 people are locked up in our federal correctional facilities practical information about the federal prison system remains difficult to locate While some information may be found scattered on the Internet in
