

and experience even are only accepted by them when they are supporting their own opinions, corroborating their own views. But whenever any truth contravenes their belief, what they hold to be true; whenever any facts or experiences, any results of scientific disquisitions explode their old fashioned, untenable, yet to them venerable notions, then their ire is roused; their zeal fired. They not only refuse to hear calmly, to investigate impartially the claims or merits of an opposite truth, but reject it with contempt, without deining, or rather daring, to inquire into its merits. Yea, more! They not only reject such, to them new, truths, facts or results with indignation, but even scorn, hate, condemn and persecute those who maintain, promulgate or defend them. And yet it is but these impartial investigations into the nature of things; these scientific divings into the recesses of nature and the bringing out of hidden truths by them; these fearless soundings of facts in order to enrich and rectify our knowledge that ought to be the foundation of our belief, the monitors of our actions; as it is they that constitute and manifest the excellence and superiority of man over mere brutes. For man does not, and shall not, act unthinkingly—moved only by mere instinct—but by reasoning consciousness. He shall, therefore, not be satisfied with the sum of already acquired truths, but shall never cease to examine, strive to enlarge and endeavor to augment and improve them; shall for ever aspire to newer and higher truths, to a more and better understanding of nature, to a fuller and better knowledge of himself, the essence of his being and destination, his desires, aspirations and means of his true happiness.

An Analysis of Religious Belief John Russell Amberley (viscount), 1877 The Origin of Civilisation and the Primitive Condition of Man Sir John Lubbock, 1889 The Religious History of Remote Antiquity Period and The Three Dynasties (Xia, Shang and Zhou Dynasty) Li Shi, The book is the volume of The Religious History of Remote Antiquity Period and The Three Dynasties Xia Shang and Zhou Dynasty among a series of books of Deep into China Histories The earliest known written records of the history of China date from as early as 1250 BC from the Shang dynasty c 1600 1046 BC and the Bamboo Annals 296 BC describe a Xia dynasty c 2070 1600 BC before the Shang but no writing is known from the period The Shang ruled in the Yellow River valley which is commonly held to be the cradle of Chinese civilization However Neolithic civilizations originated at various cultural centers along both the Yellow River and Yangtze River These Yellow River and Yangtze civilizations arose millennia before the Shang With thousands of years of continuous history China is one of the world's oldest civilizations and is regarded as one of the cradles of civilization The Zhou dynasty 1046 256 BC supplanted the Shang and introduced the concept of the Mandate of Heaven to justify their rule The central Zhou government began to weaken due to external and internal pressures in the 8th century BC and the country eventually splintered into smaller states during the Spring and Autumn period These states became independent and warred with one another in the following Warring States period Much of traditional Chinese culture literature and philosophy first developed during those troubled times In 221 BC Qin Shi Huang conquered the various warring states and created for himself the title of Huangdi or emperor of the Qin marking the beginning of imperial China However the oppressive government fell soon after his death and was supplanted by the longer lived Han dynasty 206 BC 220 AD Successive dynasties developed bureaucratic systems that enabled the emperor to control vast territories directly In the 21 centuries from 206 BC until AD 1912 routine administrative tasks were handled by a special elite of scholar officials Young men well versed in calligraphy history literature and philosophy were carefully selected through difficult government examinations China's last dynasty was the Qing 1644 1912 which was replaced by the Republic of China in 1912 and in the mainland by the People's Republic of China in 1949 Chinese history has alternated between periods of political unity and peace and periods of war and failed statehood the most recent being the Chinese Civil War 1927 1949 China was occasionally dominated by steppe peoples most of whom were eventually assimilated into the Han Chinese culture and population Between eras of multiple kingdoms and warlordism Chinese dynasties have ruled parts or all of China in some eras control stretched as far as Xinjiang and Tibet as at present Traditional culture and influences from other parts of Asia and the Western world carried by waves of immigration cultural assimilation expansion and foreign contact form the basis of the modern culture of China The Religious Feeling Newman

Smyth, 1877 In the struggle for existence which is ever going on in literature as in life a new book should show some variation however slight from others of its kind by means of which it may be better fitted to the surrounding conditions of thought and hope to survive for a season The reason this little book has for its appearance is a slight departure from the usual forms in which the evidences of faith are presented by which it is sought to adapt them more perfectly to the sceptical surroundings of thought in our day The variation by which this new venture among the great multitude of books hopes to live and to be useful may be said to be the result of a process of natural selection in an American mind from the German idealism and the English positivism The substance of it first formed itself in the author's mind during a season of quiet study of modern German thought and he has since found the reasoning which then enabled his own faith to survive useful in conversation with friends whose scientific studies had both brought them into unwilling doubts concerning those spiritual truths which give to life its real value and at the same time thrown the prevalent proofs of religion out of all relation to their habits of mind Preface PsycINFO Database Record c 2010 APA all rights reserved
