The Aesthetic Function Of Art:

The Aesthetic Function of Art Gary Iseminger, 2018-09-05 How can we understand art and its impact Gary Iseminger argues that the function of the practice of art and the informal institution of the artworld is to promote aesthetic communication He concludes that the fundamental criteria for evaluating a work of art as a work of art are aesthetic After considering other practices and institutions that have aesthetic dimensions and other things that the practice of art does Iseminger suggests that art is better at promoting aesthetic communication than other practices are and that art is better at promoting aesthetic communication than it is at anything else Iseminger bases his work on a distinction often blurred in contemporary aesthetics between art as a set of products/works of art and art as an informal institution and social practice the artworld Focusing initially on the function of the artworld rather than the function of works of art he blends elements from two of the most currently influential philosophical approaches to art George Dickie's institutional theory and Monroe Beardsley's aesthetic theory and provides a new foundation for a traditional account of what makes good art

Functional Beauty Glenn Parsons, Allen Carlson, 2008-11-20 Glenn Parsons and Allen Carlson offer an in depth philosophical study of the relationship between function and aesthetic value breaking with the philosophical tradition of seeing the two as separate They begin by developing and defending in a general way the concept of Functional Beauty exploring how the role of function in aesthetic appreciation has been treated by some notable thinkers in the history of aesthetics They then consider the relationship to Functional Beauty of certain views in current aesthetic thought especially what we call cognitively rich approaches to the aesthetic appreciation of both art and nature Turning to work on the nature of function in the philosophy of science they argue that this line of enquiry can help solve certain philosophical problems that have been raised for the idea that knowledge of function plays an important role in aesthetic appreciation Although philosophical discussions of aesthetic appreciation tend to focus largely and sometimes almost exclusively on artworks the range of aesthetic appreciation is of course much larger Not simply art but also nature architecture and even more mundane everyday things cars tools clothing furniture and sports are objects of frequent and enthusiastic aesthetic appreciation Accordingly in the second half of the book Glen Parsons and Allen Carlson consider the place and importance of Functional Beauty in the aesthetic appreciation of a broad range of different kinds of things The final chapters explore Functional Beauty in nature and the natural environment in architecture and the built environment in everyday artefacts events and activities and finally in art and the artworld In each case Parsons and Carlson argue that Functional Beauty illuminates our aesthetic experiences and helps to address various theoretical issues raised by these different objects of appreciation

The Person in Art Hans-Otto Thomashoff, Ekaterina Sukhanova, 2008 Through an interdisciplinary multicultural approach this book explores the role of psychiatric art in facilitating personal empowerment fostering the healing process and confronting stigma Today when we are constantly reminded of the dangers of thinking in exclusive terms art affords us a model of dialogue in which the other is accepted as an equal conversation partner Art fosters co operative communication in which dignity and individuality of a mental health patient may be reaffirmed At the same time art allows for critical distance retrospection and vast opportunities for individual choice and thus may be conducive to an improved self image and self esteem The book discusses norm and its transgression as aesthetic categories influencing the understanding of outsider and mainstream art The role of art as a social force that contributes to the way mental health and illness are perceived in a given community is also addressed Understanding the mechanisms underlying aesthetic perceptions of art helps us understand how psychiatric art can be used to help fight stigma associated with illness Special attention is given to the semiotics of the portrait a genre with an especially marked dialogical potential that still lacks a systematic study in the context of psychiatric art The book is addressed to psychiatrists other mental health professionals as well as scholars in humanities and social sciences concerned with the issues of creativity and the mind

Living in the Landscape Arnold Berleant, 1997 In Living in the Landscape Arnold Berleant explores new ways of thinking about how we live and might live in the landscapes that enfold us Through the concepts of aesthetic engagement and environmental continuity he proposes a new paradigm that offers a holistic approach to the meaning of place and places of meaning in our lives Although environmental aesthetics is linked in the popular mind to dramatic vistas and monumental landscapes the Grand Canyon for example Berleant is much more concerned with the commonplace settings of everyday life He argues that our active appreciation of or aesthetic engagement with the prosaic landscapes of home work local travel and recreation plays a vital role in our discovery of hidden continuities as well as pleasure and meaning in the places we inhabit Berleant begins with a general introduction to environmental aesthetics identifying the kinds of experience meanings and values it involves and describing its historical sources and the issues with which it is concerned In the rest of the book he spotlights new directions in the field as they relate to education community creativity and the sacred and provides an insightful analysis of negative environmental aesthetics Throughout he is both thoughtful and entertaining as evidenced in his extended critique of the pop post modern environment of Disney World Berleant addresses issues commonly associated with the environmental movement e g preservation pollution control and quality of life But his study draws from a wide range of disciplines and for that reason should also appeal to scholars and students interested in art and aesthetics landscape architecture and planning urban and environmental design and cultural geography as well as environmental studies
