 with the death of the city state and that the fourth century BC ushered in an era of theatrical mediocrity offering shallow entertainment to a depoliticised citizenry The traditional view of fourth century culture is encouraged and sustained by the absence of dramatic texts in anything more than fragments Until recently little attention was paid to an enormous array of non literary evidence attesting not only the sustained vibrancy of theatrical culture but a huge expansion of theatre that the fourth century BC was an age of exponential growth in theatre It saw the construction of permanent stone theatres
