Orkney Caroline Wickham-Jones,2013-05-13 Orkney lies only 20 miles north of mainland Scotland yet for many centuries its culture was more Scandinavian than Scottish Strong westerly winds account for the scarcity of trees on Orkney and also for the tradition of well constructed stone structures As a result the islands boast a large number of exceptionally well preserved remains which help us to form a detailed picture of Orcadian life through the ages Sites and remains to be explored include settlements from the Stone Age stone circles and burials from the Bronze Age Iron Age brochs Viking castles the magnificent cathedral of St Magnus in Kirkwall Renaissance palaces a Martello tower from the Napoleonic Wars and numerous remains from the Second World War In this updated edition of her best selling book Caroline Wickham Jones who has worked extensively on Orcadian sites for many years introduces the history of the islands and provides a detailed survey of the principal places and sites of historic interest

Shetland Royal Commission on the Ancient and Historical Monuments and Constructions of Scotland, 1946 Between the Wind and the Water Caroline Wickham-Jones, 2014-04-30 The archaeological sites of Orkney give us an unparalleled glimpse into prehistory. Inscribed as the Heart of Neolithic Orkney World Heritage Site in 1999 four great monuments the village of Skara Brae the Ring of Brodgar the Stones of Stenness and the burial mound of Maeshowe are also at the center of the archipelago's story. This book looks at what makes these monuments so special. Caroline Wickham Jones explores the Neolithic world in which they were built how they came to be a focus through the ages and what they mean today. Picts saints Vikings antiquarians and tourists populate Orkney's past a history which is channeled through these dances of stones. This new second edition replaces the highly successful and widely used first edition which sold over 1 000 copies. The text has been fully updated to take account of recent discoveries and research including the now world famous site Ness of Brodgar. In addition there are over thirty new images including stunning photographs of Orkney's archaeology and landscape.

Ramona Harrison, Ruth A. Maher, 2014-10-08 In Human Ecodynamics in the North Atlantic A Collaborative Model of Humans and Nature through Space and Time Ramona Harrison and Ruth A Maher have compiled a series of separate research projects conducted across the North Atlantic region that each contribute greatly to anthropological archaeology. This book assembles a regional model through which the reader is presented with a vivid and detailed image of the climatic events and cultures which have occupied these seas and lands for roughly a 5000 year period. It provides a model of adaptability resilience and sustainability that can be applied globally. First visiting the Northern Isles of Scotland in the Orkney Islands the reader is taken through the archaeology from the Neolithic Period through World War II in the face of sea level rise and rapidly eroding coastlines. The Shetland Islands then reveal a deep time study of one large scale Iron Age excavation. On to the northern coasts of Norway where information about late medieval maritime peoples is explained. Iceland explores human environment interaction and implications of climate change presented from the Viking Age through the Early Modern Era. Rounding out the North Atlantic Region is Greenland which sheds light on the Norse in the late Viking Age and the Middle Ages.
