

Who's who in the courtroom

Solicitor

The solicitor who brings the barrister and instructs the barrister during the case. The solicitor works with the barrister and the client preparing the case and collecting the evidence. Like barristers, solicitors can argue the client's case in court, state the relevant law and examine witnesses.

Jury

The jury sits together on one side of the courtroom where there is a trial. They have a clear view of the judge and any witnesses. A jury consists of twelve men and women randomly selected from the electoral register. Most juries between 18 and 70 who are registered to vote are eligible for jury duty. The jury hears the evidence and decides on the guilt or innocence of the accused in a criminal case and what penalty they receive in a civil case.

Registrar / Court Clerk

The Registrar/Court Clerk sits at the front of the judge and records any orders made by the judge. He/she assists the judge with administrative matters and is in charge of the court documents and exhibits. The Registrar/Court Clerk also records the names of the witnesses, swears in the jury, administers the oath to witnesses and records the decision in the case.

Judge

The judge is in charge of court proceedings and decides any legal issues arising in the case. If the case does not involve a jury, the judge also decides questions of fact, such as the guilt or innocence of the accused, or which party wins in a civil case. The judge wears a gown and sits at a bench above the other people in the court.

Digital Audio Recording (DAR) box

Everything that is said in court during the case, including any evidence given by the witnesses, is recorded digitally.

Witness

The witness sits on one side of the judge and gives testimony in open court. Witnesses are called by either party to prove their side of the story and they are cross-examined by the opposing party with the authority of their lawyers.

Judicial Assistant

The Judicial Assistant works with the judge. Among other duties it is to undertake legal research for the judge and to announce the arrival and departure of the judge from the courtroom usually by saying 'all rise'.

Accused

The accused comes before the court accused of a crime. If the accused is in custody he/she will be brought to court by a prison officer.

Prison Officer

The prison officer brings an accused person (who is in custody) to the courtroom and sits with them. The prison officer wears a uniform.

Solicitors

Counsel

Barrister / Counsel

The barristers in the case are known as 'counsel'. They help the judge and any witnesses. The barrister's role is to argue higher law, to state the relevant law and to examine any evidence on the evidence which they give to the court. The barrister leads the evidence, who traditionally wear two black gowns with the court before the case begins. The barrister wears a gown.

Members of Public

Anyone can watch any court case, except where there is a judge hearing in camera or the case is in private. They means that the case will be heard in public and that members of the public, who are not involved in the case, are not allowed into the courtroom. They to ensure that it is open to ensure the privacy of the people in court, they to ensure that the public are not allowed to see the case in private before the public hearing.

The Transformation or Reconstitution of Europe Tamara Perišin, Siniša Rodin, 2018-03-08 It is generally understood that EU law as interpreted by the ECJ has not merely reconstituted the national legal matrix at the supranational level but has also transformed Europe and shaken the well established often formalist ways of thinking about law in the Member States This innovative new study seeks to examine such a narrative through the lens of the American critical legal studies CLS perspective The introduction explains how the editors understand CLS and why its methodology is relevant in the European context Part II examines whether and how judges embed policy choices or even ideologies in their decisions and how to detect them Part III assesses how the ECJ acts to ensure the legitimacy of its decisions whether it resists implementing political ideologies what the ideology of European integration is and how the selection of judges influences these issues Part IV uses the critical perspective to examine some substantive parts of EU law rules on internal and external movement and the European arrest warrant It seeks to determine whether the role of the ECJ has really been transformative and whether that transformation is reversible Part V considers the role of academics in shaping the narratives of EU integration
