The Culture And Technology Of African Iron Production:

The Culture and Technology of African Iron Production Peter Ridgway Schmidt, 1996 Archaeological and ethnographic investigations in western Tanzania in the 1970s revealed remarkable evidence for a complex and highly advanced iron technology that existed there several thousand years ago Still Western scientific and historical practice continues to obscure the history of iron technology and its accomplishments in Africa Weaving together myth ritual history and science this work describes the systems of smithing and iron smelting some of which arose 2 000 to 2 500 years ago Revealing the world of African technological achievement the contributors to this work demonstrate that iron production there is a socially constructed activity and that its cultural and technological domains cannot be understood separately

Society, Culture, and Technology in Africa S. Terry Childs, 1994 The book includes eight papers focusing on the interaction of society culture and technology in Africa over the last two million years The goal is to highlight the research being conducted in Africa on this broad topic and thereby facilitate communication between scholars of sociotechnical systems worldwide

The Exploitation of Plant Resources in Ancient Africa Marijke van der Veen, 2013-06-29 This volume presents a completely new and very substantial body of information about the origin of agriculture and plant use in Africa All the evidence is very recent and for the first time all this archaeobotanical evidence is brought together in one volume at present the information is unpublished or published in many disparate journals conference reports monographs site reports etc Early publications concerned with the origins of African plant domestication relied almost exclusively on inferences made from the modern distribution of the wild progenitors of African cultivars there existed virtually no archaeobotanical data at that time Even as recently as the early 1990s direct evidence for the transition to farming and the relative roles of indigenous versus Near Eastern crops was lacking for most of Africa This volume changes that and presents a wide range of exciting new evidence including case studies from Nigeria Burkina Faso Ethiopia Uganda Egypt and Sudan which range in date from 8000 BP to the present day The volume addresses topics such as the role of wild plant resources in hunter gatherer and farming communities the origins of agriculture the agricultural foundation of complex societies long distance trade the exchange of foods and crops and the human impact on local vegetation all key issues of current research in archaeology anthropology agronomy ecology and economic history

Francophone African Cinema K. Martial Frindétié, 2014-01-10 Setting the stage for a critical encounter between Francophone African cinema and Continental European critical theory this book offers a transnational and interdisciplinary analysis of 16 Francophone African films including Bassek Ba Kobhio's The Great White Man of Lambarene Cheick Oumar Sissoko's Guimba the Tyrant and Amadou Seck's Saaraba The author invites readers to study these films in the context of transnational conversations between African filmmakers and the conventional theorists whose works are more readily available in academia The book examines black French filmmakers' treatments of a number of cross cultural themes including intercontinental encounters and reciprocity
