

ENTIRELY

If we could get the hang of it entirely
It would take too long;
All we know is the splash of words in passing
And falling twigs of song.
And when we try to eavesdrop on the great
Presences it is rarely
That by a stroke of luck we can appropriate
Even a phrase entirely.

If we could find our happiness entirely
In somebody else's arms
We should not fear the spears of the spring nor the city's Yammering fire alarms
But, as it is, the spears each year go through
Our flesh and almost hourly
Bell or siren banishes the blue
Eyes of Love entirely.

And if the world were black or white entirely
And all the charts were plain
Instead of a mad weir of tigerish waters,
A prism of delight and pain,
We might be surer where we wished to go
Or again we might be merely
Bored but in brute reality there is no
Road that is right entirely.

The Poetry Of Louis Macneice

Tom Walker

The Poetry Of Louis Macneice:

The Cave of Making Robyn Marsack, 1982 The Collected Poems of Louis MacNeice Louis MacNeice, 1967 Early in his career MacNeice was identified with a group of politically committed poets whose work appeared in Michael Roberts's anthology New Signatures MacNeice drew many of the texts for Modern Poetry A Personal Essay from the New Signature poets. Modern Poetry was MacNeice's plea for an impure poetry expressive of the poet's immediate interests and his sense of the natural and the social world. Despite his association with young British poets Stephen Spender, W H Auden, writer Christopher Isherwood and other left wing poets MacNeice was as mistrustful of political programs as he was of philosophical systems. In the decades since his death in 1963 Louis MacNeice's reputation as a poet and indeed amongst poets has grown steadily and there are now several generations of readers in Ireland, Britain and beyond for whom he is one of the essential poets of the twentieth century. His work has also received increasing attention from academic writers and students. For both readers and critics the nature of MacNeice's poetic work as a whole is a matter of importance, particularly so in the brilliant return to form and unique kinds of return on lyric form itself.

Collected Poems Louis MacNeice, 2015-04-09 In the decades since his death in 1963 Louis MacNeice's reputation as a poet and indeed amongst poets has grown steadily and there are now several generations of readers in Ireland, Britain and beyond for whom he is one of the essential poets of the twentieth century. His work has also received increasing attention from academic writers and students. For both readers and critics the nature of MacNeice's poetic work as a whole is a matter of importance and the second posthumous Collected Poems entirely re-edited by Peter McDonald attempts for the first time to print MacNeice's poetry in groupings corresponding closely to the collections published by Faber between 1935 and 1963. This makes it easier to read the poet in the published forms in which he was read by his contemporaries. In choosing to re-create the environments of MacNeice's individual volumes of poetry moreover this new Collected reflects the opinion that MacNeice works best in and through those separate volumes particularly so in the brilliant return to form and unique kinds of return on lyric form itself of the last three collections. The texts of the poems in the new edition are based on a comparison of all printed versions as revised in the light of the poet's later thoughts. This has resulted in a large number of changes. It is hoped that the present edition presents MacNeice's poetry more accurately as well as more fully than all previous collections. The new Collected Poems also includes as appendices The Last Ditch the short book of poems which MacNeice published with the Cuala Press in 1940 and The Revenant a cycle of songs written for MacNeice's wife the singer Hedli Anderson a selection of uncollected early poems and from Blind Fireworks MacNeice's first published book of verse.

intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Louis MacNeice and the Irish Poetry of his Time Tom Walker,2015-09-17 This study focuses on Louis MacNeice's creative and critical engagement with other Irish poets during his lifetime It draws on extensive archival research to uncover the previously unrecognised extent of the poet's contact with Irish literary mores and networks Poetic dialogues with contemporaries including F R Higgins John Hewitt W R Rodgers Austin Clarke Patrick Kavanagh John Montague and Richard Murphy are traced against the persistent rhetoric of cultural and geographical attachment at large in Irish poetry and criticism during the period These comparative readings are framed by accounts of MacNeice's complex relationship with the oeuvre of W B Yeats which forms a meta narrative to MacNeice's broader engagement with Irish poetry Yeats is shown to have been MacNeice's contemporary in the 1930s reading and reacting to the younger poet's work just as MacNeice read and reacted to the older poet's work But the ongoing challenge of the intellectual and formal complexity of Yeats's poetry also provided a means through which MacNeice across his whole career dialectically developed various modes through which to confront modernity's cultural political and philosophical challenges This book offers new and revisionary perspectives on MacNeice's work and its relationship to Ireland's literary traditions as well as making an innovative contribution to the history of Irish literature and anglophone poetry in the twentieth century
