The Political Structure Of African States:

The Political Structure of African States Kwasi Sarfo, 1988 Politics and Government in African States Peter Duignan, Robert H. Jackson, 2022-08-01 Originally published in 1986 Politics and Government in African States 1960 1985 deals with the politics of sub Saharan African states since independence Each chapter considers the formal structure of government at the time of independence and traces the subsequent changes Each chapter also describes the development of the state machinery the civil service the parastatals defence and police forces party structure the political opposition and trade unions The economics of African states are dealt with insofar as they affect politics and government The Politics of Military Reform Jürgen Rüland, Maria-Gabriela Manea, Hans Born, 2012-09-03 This volume seeks to explain why democratization and military reforms stagnate in newly democratizing countries The contributions blend historical ideational cultural and structural explanatory factors to analyze the trajectories of military reform in Indonesia and Nigeria two major regional powers that share many structural commonalities In the tradition of the literature on security sector reform SSR the book not only scrutinizes executive initiatives toward military reform but also provides ample coverage of societal actors Findings show that while military reform is stagnating in both countries societal forces ought to be taken into account more as major driving forces in explaining military reform Several chapters study how legislatures non governmental organizations and the civilian defence epistemic community contribute to the transformation of military institutions The last part of the book tackles another aspect rarely studied in the literature on military reform namely the role of militias in military reform

The Political Impact of African Military Leaders Sabella Ogbobode Abidde, Felix Kumah-Abiwu, 2023-06-28 This edited volume examines the cases of four African military leaders who had enormous impact on the continent and beyond These military officers and later heads of state Jerry Rawlings of Ghana Moammar Gaddafi of Libya Thomas Sankara of Burkina Faso and Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt were provocative and polarizing figures beloved domestically but mostly viewed with suspicion and hostility by foreign governments This volume studies these leaders as a group engaging in a critical but systematic examination of their personalities leadership styles official performance legacies and their continuing impact on the future and political destiny of the continent Providing a survey of controversial but important African political figures this volume will be of use to scholars and students in the social sciences especially those interested in African history African studies military science Black studies political science leadership studies and the politics of developing nations

International Statebuilding in West Africa Abu Bakarr Bah, Nikolas Emmanuel, 2024-08-06 At the turn of the twenty first century manipulation of the democratic process coupled with preexisting political and economic grievances led to years long civil wars in Sierra Leone Liberia and Cote d'Ivoire During and after these conflicts international peacekeeping efforts and humanitarian intervention became the dominant paths for restoring stability by rebuilding the state Using these three countries as case studies this manuscript sheds light on internationally driven state building in war torn West African nations the problematic nature of the postcolonial state and the difficulties of securing its people's wellbeing. Connecting peace and conflict, democracy and international development studies, Bah and Emmanuel argue that there is a clear nexus between the concepts and practices of peace building and statebuilding that peace building and statebuilding are not domestic matters alone but also matters of global intervention and that civil wars can be viewed as opportunities for state building through creative postwar partnerships and organization. This study goes beyond the familiar concepts of failed states, R2P, peacekeeping and peace mediation and introduces and enhances the concepts of state decay, new humanitarianism, people centered liberalism and institutional design. In doing so, it provides critical lessons that local and international actors can draw on as they try to figure out practical solutions to the political, economic and social problems that impede the development of peaceful and democratic multiethnic postcolonial states in Africa and beyond. Applying comparative historical methods and theory to archival materials and expert interviews, International Statebuilding in West Africa seeks to shift the discourse on civil wars from their causes and implications to the opportunities they provide to rework failed states and to shift the discourse on African states from their colonial and neocolonial legacies to their shared moral and security interests with the rest of the world.

The Oxford Handbook of Modern African History John Parker, Richard Reid, 2013-10-10

The Oxford Handbook of Modern African History represents an invaluable tool for historians and others in the field of African studies. This collection of essays produced by some of the finest scholars currently working in the field provides the latest insights into and interpretations of the history of Africa, a continent with a rich and complex past. An understanding of this past is essential to gain perspective on Africa's current challenges and this accessible and comprehensive volume will allow readers to explore various aspects, political, economic, social and cultural, of the continent's history over the last two hundred years. Since African history first emerged as a serious academic endeavour in the 1950s and 1960s, it has undergone numerous shifts in terms of emphasis and approach, changes brought about by political and economic exigencies and by ideological debates. This multi-faceted Handbook is essential reading for anyone with an interest in those debates and in Africa and its peoples. While the focus is determinedly historical, anthropology, geography, literary criticism, political science and sociology are all employed in this ground-breaking study of Africa's past.

Uniting Africa David J. Francis, 2017-05-15

Plagued by bloody wars and armed conflicts, political instability, communal violence and displaced persons, and at the mercy of natural catastrophes such as drought and famine, it is not surprising that the Western press has long dismissed Africa as the hopeless continent. In the face of these challenges, Africa today is faced with a stark choice: either unite or perish. The debate on why and how the continent should unite in terms of co-operative peace, security and development is more urgent than at any other time in Africa's post-colonial history. Moving forward from the failure of the earlier, typically idealistic Africa unity project, David Francis demonstrates how peace and security challenges have created the imperative for change. He argues that a series of regional peace and security systems are emerging and that states that have participated in practical experiments in regional peacekeeping peace support operations conflict stabilization management and preventive diplomacy are building de facto systems of peace and security that could be institutionalized and extended Africa Must Unite Vincent Happy Mnisi,2011-03-11 This book is compilation of an A Z African Royal past and present an A Z African Historical Events The A Z of African Leaders and the guidance to the formation of the United Countries Of Africa UCA Electoral Politics, Laws and Ethnicity in Africa Emmanuel Saffa Abdulai,2023-07-24 The book will provide the first regionally widespread and thematic look at African electoral systems and antecedent issues such as electoral laws gender politics violence and youth challenges in Africa It will enrich the discussion on four country specific studies within a general regional framework that explains and explores a home base viewpoint of what occurs before during and after elections The book will bring together a discussion of diverse issues under one umbrella which has never been done before This book begins a discussion from an academic s and practitioner s view of elections contrasting the intellectual discussion with the author s personal experience of practical realities on the ground Additionally the book will create long standing and lasting literature that will compare elections in some of Africa s leading democratic countries such as South Africa Kenya Ghana and Sierra Leone Africa: the Political Pattern Millar MacLure,Douglas George Anglin,1961 Slavery and Slaving in African History Sean Stilwell,2014-06-02 This book is a comprehensive history of slavery in Africa from the earliest times to the end of the twentieth century when slavery in most parts of the continent ceased to exist It connects the emergence and consolidation of slavery to specific historical forces both internal and external to the African continent Sean Stilwell pays special attention to the development of settled agriculture the invention of kinship big men and centralized states the role of African economic production and exchange the interaction of local structures of dependence with the external slave trades transatlantic trans Saharan Indian Ocean and the impact of colonialism on slavery in the twentieth century He also provides an introduction to the central debates that have shaped current understanding of slavery in Africa The book examines different forms of slavery that developed over time in Africa and introduces readers to the lives work and struggles of slaves themselves African Political Systems Meyer Fortes,2011-03-23 One object we had in initiating this study was to provide a convenient reference book for anthropologists We also hope that it will be a contribution to the discipline of comparative politics We feel sure that the first object has been attained for the societies described are representative of common types of African political systems and taken together they enable a student to appreciate the great variety of such types As the sketch map on p 2 shows the eight systems described are widely distributed in the continent Most of the forms described are variants of a pattern of political organization found among contiguous or neighbouring societies so that this book covers by implication a very large part of Africa We are aware that not every type of political system found in Africa is represented but we believe that all the major principles of African political organization are brought out in these essays Several contributors have described the changes in the political systems they investigated which have taken place as a result of European conquest and rule If we do not emphasize this side of the subject it is because all contributors are more interested in anthropological than in administrative problems We do not wish to imply however that anthropology is indifferent to practical affairs The policy of Indirect Rule is now generally accepted in British Africa We would suggest that it can only prove advantageous in the long run if the principles of African political systems such as this book deals with are understood Each essay is a condensation of a detailed study of the political system of a single people undertaken in recent years by the most advanced methods of field work by students trained in anthropological theory A degree of brevity that hardly does justice to some important topics has been necessary for reasons of space Each essay furnishes nevertheless a useful standard by which the political systems of other peoples in the same area may be classified No such classification is attempted in this book but we recognize that a satisfactory comparative study of African political institutions can only be undertaken after a classification of the kind has been made It would then be possible to study a whole range of adjacent societies in the light of the Ngwato system the Tale system the Ankole system the Bemba system and so on and by analysis to state the chief characters of series of political systems found in large areas An analysis of the results obtained by these comparative studies in fields where a whole range of societies display many similar characteristics in their political systems would be more likely to lead to valid scientific generalizations than comparison between particular societies belonging to different areas and political types

The Precarious Balance Donald Rothchild, Naomi Chazan, 2019-06-26 Since independence the political institutions of many African states have undergone a process of consolidation and subsequent deterioration Constrained by external economic dependency and an acute scarcity of economic and technical resources state officials have demonstrated a diminished capacity to regulate their societies Public policies are agreed upon but ineffectively implemented by the weak institutions of the state Although scholars have analyzed the various facets of state building in detail little systematic attention has been given to the issue of the decline of the state and mechanisms to cope with state ineffectiveness in Africa This book focuses especially on the character of the postcolonial state in Africa the nature of and reasons for state deterioration and the mechanisms and policies for coping with state malfunction Scholars from Africa the United States Europe and the Middle East combine a broad understanding of African political processes with expertise on specific regions Their analytic and comparative perspective provides a comprehensive and timely treatment of this vital and heretofore neglected theme in African politics

Critical Perspectives on African Politics Clive Gaby, Carl Death, 2014-05-09 Strong states and strong civil societies are now increasingly hailed as the twin drivers of a rising Africa Current attempts to support growth and democracy are part of a longer history of promoting projects of disciplinary regulatory and liberal rule and values beyond the West Yet this is not simply Western domination of a passive continent Such an interpretation misses out on the complexities and nuances of the politics of state building and civil society promotion and the central role of African agency Drawing upon critical theory including postcolonial and governmentality approaches this book interrogates international practices of state building and civil society support in Africa It seeks to develop a theoretically informed critical approach to discourses and interventions such as those associated with broadly Western initiatives in Africa In doing so the book highlights the power relations inequalities coercion and violence that are deeply implicated within contemporary international interventions on the African continent Providing a range of empirical cases and theoretical approaches the chapters are united by their critical treatment of political dynamics in Africa This book will be of interest to students and scholars of African politics development studies postcolonial theory International Relations international political economy and peacekeeping making Individualism, a System of Politics Wordsworth Donisthorpe, 1889 Chapter IX appeared originally in the Westminster review July 1886 cf Pref
