The Small Private Forest in the United States (Routledge Revivals) Charles H. Stoddard, 2015-06-11

Throughout the past few decades, the standard answer to the problem of low productivity in small private forests has been education. It has been assumed that the chief obstacle to good forestry has been lack of knowledge. But the stubborn persistence of the problem raises some doubts as to the efficacy of the remedy. In this book, first published in 1961, the author takes a sharper look at this problem. He tries to find out what has worked reasonably well and what has not and makes some suggestions as to what seems to offer the best prospects for the future. The Small Private Forest in the United States will be of interest to students of environmental studies as well as to private landowners.

Innovation in Forestry: Territorial and Value Chain Relationships. Edited by Gerhard Weiss, Davide Pettenella, Pekka Ollonqvist, and Bill Slee. Innovation is increasingly recognized as a key factor in environmental protection and sustainable development in forestry and forest-based industries. This volume provides a comprehensive theoretical foundation for the analysis of innovation processes and policies in a traditional rural sector as well as presenting empirical analyses of innovation processes from major innovation areas. Innovative solutions are analysed in wood-related value chains, including timber frame construction, furniture, bio-energy, and forest transportation. Territorial services of the forest sector are examined, including various types of forest ecosystem services such as carbon sequestration.
